BOSTON SUIT CASE MYSTERY MAY BE CLEARED UP BY ARREST OF AN ACTOR IN PITTSBURGH

Morris Nathan Weeps for Dead Sweetheart and Faints Twice While He Is Being Questioned by the Detectives.

WITH GIRL LAST TIME SEEN

Morris Nathan, secretary to Manager B. A. Reinold of Wright Lorimer's "Shepherd King" theatrical company, was arrested last night for the murder of Miss Ethel Durrell, the victim of the celebrated Boston suit case mystery. Nathan is a prisoner at the Pittsburgh Central station and will be held pending action by the Boston authorities.

Nathan was arrested in the Hotel Henry by Detectives George W. Cole and James W. Eagan at 11:30 o'clock last night. The prisoner burst into tears when he was confronted by the officers, and during his examination fainted twice in the arms of the detectives. He clings to his original story that he was engaged to marry Miss Durrell, and that the last time he saw her was at a Boston subway station on the night of September 9.

Nathan's Great Grief.

Nathan's apparent grief was pitiful to behold, and it was with difficulty that Supt. Thomas A. McQuaide of the bureau of detectives could glean between the young man's sobs, the story of his association with the dead girl. Nathan said he would willingly return to Boston without the necessary formality of requisition papers.

Orders to arrest the man came to the local bureau of police at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Chief W. H. Pierce of the Boston detectives sent a long-distance telephone message to Pittsburgh, asking that Nathan be arrested and questioned regarding his knowledge of the crime. Inspector W. H. Robinson received the message and took no action until he conferred with Supt. Wallace and Supt. McQuaide. Detectives Cole and Eagan were at once detailed upon the case.

At first the members of the company were reticent about giving information. Manager Reinold and Stage Director Samuel Forrest were encountered in the lobby of the Colonial Hotel.

Detectives Became Suspicious.

They were asked to produce the letter and the alleged physician's certificate which was said to have been sent by Miss Durrell to the manager of the company, begging that she be excused from the Monday performance at Lowell, saying that she was ill with stomach trouble. Reinold said this could not be procured.

Later information caused the detectives to grow suspicious and Reinold and Forrest were taken in custody and compelled to accompany the officers to the police station. It was now 10 p. m. and no trace of Nathan's boarding house could be found. Other members of the company said that they did not know where he could be found. Several directions were given to the detectives to theatrical boarding houses in the city, but these did not result in the man being found.

Released, but Shadowed.

Supt. McQuade's examination was searching, and at last he exclaimed to Reinold:

"Tell me where we can find Nathan."

"I think he went to Allegheny," replied the manager.

By this time detectives were searching all parts of the city.

Miss Eleanor Earron, one of the singers in the company, who was a roommate of Miss Durrell, could not be found at her boarding house at 321 Penn avenue, and the intimation was given that she and Nathan had gone out together.

Reinold and Forrest were excused by the detectives on the promise that they would return to the detective bureau today and give fresh information. They walked out of the office and ran up Cherry alley to the Hotel Henry. Detective Cole followed and encountered them in the lobby. The theatrical men at once entered the elevator and went to the suite of apartments occupied by Mr. Lorimer.

Nathan Found and Collapses.

The detective followed. In the room he found Reinold and Forrest with S. Kimeo, Lorimer's Japanese valet, and a youth whose eyes were bathed in tears.

The weeping youth was at once recognized as Nathan, and he was asked to accompany the detectives to the police station. Nathan collapsed and was led down the street between the supporting arms of Kimeo and Forrest.

As soon as the arrest was made the Boston police were notified by telephone and the prisoner and his friends were closeted for an hour with the detectives.

Nathan buried his face in his hands and wept bitterly. He started to tell that he had intended to marry Miss Durrell. He told how he loved her and how lonesome he had been since she had disappeared. Life, he cried, had been but a long torture of unspeakable misery and longing.

Reiterates His Former Story.

It was this plaintive wail of grief, rather than his account of the girl's disappearance, which consumed much of his time when first closeted in the superintendent's private office.

After he had wept until his eyes refused longer to supply tears to bathe his burning cheeks, he rose up, and, looking straight into the eyes of the officers, told them he had accompanied Miss Durrell to a Boston subway station on the night of September 9, and he had not seen her since. He said he had advised her parents to report her disappearance to the police, but they had not done so. Beyond this, he said, he knew nothing of the case, until he read of the finding of the mutilated body at Boston, and then he at once grew suspicious that the dismembered remains were those of his former sweetheart.

Superintendent McQuaide about this time received a reply from Chief Pierce in Boston, and they held a conversation over the telephone for several minutes. Chief Pierce gave implicit orders that the man be held for further action. When this was told Nathan he swooned. He recovered quickly and was asked a few more questions.

Faints a Second Time.

Then he was ordered to be removed to a cell. He swooned again. On account of his exceedingly nervous condition he was placed on a hospital cot in the woman's ward of the prison.

Nathan is about 22 years of age. He is a Hebrew, of slight stature and has a

STREETS OF ODESSA ARE STAINED WITH BLOOD OF CZAR'S SUBJECTS

Twenty-Seven Persons Killed and Ninety Are Wounded in One Fight—Cossacks Are Firing on Workmen and Students.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ODESSA, Oct. 29.—There have been two serious conflicts here between the troops and a mob, in which 27 persons were killed and 90 wounded.

Cossacks have commenced firing on the crowds of workmen and students who have barricaded street corners with street railway poles and furniture. At one point a volley from the Cossacks killed three workmen, one student and a girl, and wounded 18 persons.

The governor in a proclamation says that the first stone thrown at the military will be the signal for the troops to fire. The governor asked St. Petersburg for authority to proclaim martial law, but has not received an answer. All the streets and squares are full of Cossacks and police. Citizens have formed a committee for public defense.

The feeling is most tense. Rifle and revolver firing is heard all about the town.

"FRAT" INITIATION PROVES FATAL TO STUDENT

Train Kills Him as He Stands Blindfolded, Awaiting Coming of His Conductors.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

GAMBIER, O., Oct. 29.—While awaiting initiation into a Greek letter fraternity last night, Stewart L. Pierson, a freshman at Kenyon college, was killed by a Cleveland, Akron & Columbus train. There was no witness to the accident, so far as known, but no blame thus far attaches to the fraternity.

According to members of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Pierson had been told to station himself at the foot of an abutment of a railroad bridge and await the coming of a committee to take him to the fraternity house for initiation. When the committee went to the bridge an hour later Pierson was not there. Investigation resulted in the finding of the student's mangled body on the railroad track on the bridge. How he came to be on the bridge the students do not know.

Rumors were afloat today that Pierson had been tied to the railroad track by the initiators, but the fraternity men emphatically deny such a thing was done, or even contemplated.

Pierson was a son of L. N. Pierson, a business man of College Hill, Cincinnati. Mr. Pierson, Sr., is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and had come to attend the initiation of his son. The body of the student was taken to the home of President Pierce of Kenyon college, and prepared for burial. It was taken to Cincinnati this morning in a special train. The father told the members of the fraternity that he did not attach any blame to them.

AFRAID TO TOUCH IRON.

Hugh Williams, Believing He Is Filled With Electricity, Does Acrobatic Stunts Over Manholes.

Hugh Williams, supposed to be from York Terrace, Hollyhead, Anglesey, North Wales, was arrested at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street yesterday. Williams was jumping over manholes in the pavements and streets, declaring he was filled with electricity, and that if he came in contact with the iron coverings he would electrocute everybody in the streets.

At the station house a slip was found in his pocket on which was written what the police believe to be his address. There was also a receipt for steerage passage on the steamer Baltic. It was issued from Queenstown on August 16. Policeman Ed Frawley says that Williams lives near his home on the South Side, and he knows Williams has been drinking heavily of late.

Before sailing for Marseilles, the president entertained King Charles, Queen Marie Amelie and the members of the royal family at luncheon on the French armored cruiser Leon Gambetta, at which warm expressions of friendship between the two nations were exchanged.

CZAR'S REGIME IS TOTTERING BEFORE THE UPRISING

Even the Army Cannot Be Relied on for Loyalty to Crown.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 29.—While the day passed quietly without bloodshed in the Russian capital and while the city is outwardly calm, today's developments all indicate that a crisis is imminent. Although the streets are filled with troops and reinforcements are now pouring in from Finland, the government seems utterly powerless to cope with the situation and many calm observers seem seriously to believe that the present regime is tottering to its fall.

Differences have developed between Count Witte and Gen. Trepoff and while the precious moments pass the emperor, surrounded by the imperial family, remains shut up at Peterhof, seemingly still hesitating as to what course to pursue.

Grave doubts are expressed as to whether even the imperial guard can now be relied upon. Discontent is rife. Early this morning the Fourteenth and Eighteenth companies of sailors of the guard, who have been shut up like prisoners in barracks on the Moika canal, demolished the windows and furniture and in the afternoon a detachment, consisting of four officers of the guard went to the lawyers' assembly and told the barristers that many officers and a large part of the troops were disgusted with the government and ready to enlist in the movement for freedom.

Even Cossacks Are Cautious.

They asked for aid toward effecting organization and said they had discussed among themselves the question of resigning, but decided to show that people in uniform could help to achieve liberties. Even the Cossack patrols in keeping idlers moving in the streets today seemed careful not to use their whips and simply drove the crowds along before their advancing horses.

A meeting of the municipal council was held this evening at which a deputation of 30 members of the strikers' committee appeared. In an impassioned speech the leader of the deputation presented the following demands of the workmen and affiliated organizations:

First—A constitution and political liberty.

Second—That the city furnish food to the workmen.

Third—That the city refuse further supplies to the troops and the police.

Fourth—That the troops be removed from the waterworks or otherwise the strikers would cut the water supply.

Fifth—The immunity of the deputation from arrest.

Strikers Released from Arrest.

The council granted this last demand and promised to reply to the other demands tomorrow. The council sent requests to both Gen. Trepoff and Minister of the Interior Bouligin not to arrest the members of the deputation, but the police, nevertheless, took them into custody. Upon urgent representations, Gen. Trepoff an hour later released them.

The people are extremely nervous and bordering on panic and are easy victims of every sensational rumor. Among

FIVE PERISH BY EXPLOSION AT HAZEL KIRK MINES

Victims of the Disaster Are All Officials of the Company.

ONLY ONE ESCAPES

Fearfully Injured, He Crawls 1,200 Feet Over Dead Companions to Safety.

MAY NOT SURVIVE ORDEAL

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 29.—Five men were hurled to instant death and another was frightfully injured in an explosion at shaft No. 2 of the Hazel Kirk mines shortly after midnight this morning. The victims were all officials of the Hazel Kirk Gas Coal Company. The disaster was the indirect result of an explosion at the same shaft three weeks ago, in which two lives were lost.

Following a call for volunteers after the explosion, four men out of nearly 100, fully cognizant of the peril which faced them, entered the death-trap and began the work of recovering the dead bodies.

The dead:

JOHN HORNICKEL, Monongahela, general superintendent of the two Hazel Kirk mines, 37 years old; leaves a wife and two children.

JOSEPH HUNTER, Monongahela, fire boss at shaft No. 2, 35 years old; leaves a wife and three children.

JOHN LAVERY, Monongahela, fire boss at shaft No. 1, 38 years old; leaves a wife and 11 children.

DANIEL GRIFFITHS, Hazel Kirk mine foreman of shaft No. 2, 42 years old; leaves a wife and seven children.

HENRY CLAYBOURNE (negro), Monongahela, fire boss of shaft No. 2, 48 years old; leaves a wife and three children.

ANDREW RODNEY, the sole white fireman at shaft No. 1, aged 35 years old; had his arms and face badly burned. He is also suffering from shock. He was taken to the Memorial hospital at Monongahela, where he may die.

Those who faced death to recover the bodies are: Henry Louttuti, Monongahela, mine inspector of the first bituminous district; John McVicker, Monongahela, superintendent of the Black Diamond mine; Patrick Nealen, boss driver at Hazel Kirk shaft No. 2, and Arthur Wright, Monongahela.

Cause of the Accident.

The two mines of the company are in the Pigeon creek valley, on the Monongahela & Washington branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, six miles southwest of Monongahela. Four hundred men are employed, most of them living at the village of Hazel Kirk. On October 10 two Italian miners were killed by an explosion of firedamp in shaft No. 2, which set fire to the mine about 2,000 feet from the opening. To check the flames a force of men was put to work to shut them off from the air. Six heavy brick and cement walls, or bulkheads, were built around them, thus confining the fire to that part of the mine.

Nearly three weeks having elapsed it was believed the fire had been smothered so it was decided to make an investigation yesterday and if possible, remove the bulkheads thus opening that portion of the mine for a resumption of operation. It was determined to make the investigation last midnight after all the work for the day had been done.

Supt. Hornickel ordered that every miner be withdrawn from the diggings, so none but the investigating party should be in the mine. All the machinery was stopped. The cages were drawn to the tops of the shafts and the six officials entered the mine through the air shaft. Supt. Hornickel and the others were aware that the removal of the bulkheads was attended with great possible danger, but believed the fire had been so nearly extinguished there could be but little firedamp.

Firedamp Rushed Through.

The fire bosses and foremen, under the direction of the superintendent, began the work of tearing down one of the bulkheads. The six men were directly in front of the opening that was being cut into the brick wall. Scarcely had the wall been pierced with a pick when firedamp, which had been collecting for weeks, rushed through, tearing down the bulkhead. Instantly there was a terrific explosion, caused, it is supposed, by ignition of the firedamp from smouldering embers of the old fire.

The six men were thrown with terrific force against the mine wall. Supt. Hornickel's legs, arms and jaw were broken. The faces and bodies of all were burned. It is almost certain death came to the five men instantly.

It is thought Rodney was standing behind one of the other men when the explosion took place and was thus partially saved from its force. He was rendered unconscious, but when he revived, he began his tedious journey to the opening, knowing another explosion might occur at any time. One arm was broken and other bones were crushed.

Rodney's Fight for Life.

Realizing the cages were out in operation, Rodney started to the air shaft, crawling upon his hand and knees. He clambered over the dead bodies of four of his companions and then painfully dragged himself 1,500 feet to the air shaft. Several times he fainted, and he constantly had to fight the temptation to give up the effort. When he reached the air shaft the worst part of his journey

DEMON OF HORSE ALMOST KILLS TWO MEN

Nearly Tears Them to Pieces and Is Clubbed Senseless Before He Releases Victim.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GREENSBURG, Oct. 29.—James Foreman and John Bollinger, living at Ingleside, Allegheny township, had a desperate encounter with an infuriated horse yesterday, and both men were so seriously injured they may die.

Foreman purchased a horse a few days ago from a stranger. Young Bollinger was directed Saturday to take the horse out of the stable for exercise for the first time. The horse exhibited a savage disposition and soon got beyond control of the young man. Bollinger was knocked down and the animal jumped upon him. Finally the horse seized Bollinger by the left arm and almost wrenched it from the socket, tearing the flesh from the bone.

Foreman, hearing the cries of Bollinger, hurried to his assistance. The mad animal dropped the young man and charged at Foreman. It sank its teeth into one of his hands and then dragged him around the barnyard. A neighbor, who was passing, saw the danger of the two men, and, jumping over the fence, rained blows with a club on the animal's head.

It was only when the brute was beaten into insensibility it released its hold on the apparently dying man. A physician was summoned who said the injuries of the two men might prove fatal.

OHIO INSURANCE SUITS BACKED BY LAWSON

Boston Nemesis Has Fired Another of His Heavy Guns Against the "System."

Special Telegram From
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

AKRON, O., Oct. 29.—In the two warranto suits filed against two big life insurance companies yesterday in the circuit court of Ohio, by Henry M. Hagelbarger, prosecuting attorney of Summit county, Thomas W. Lawson of Boston has fired another of his heavy guns at the "system."

The petition recites that the New York Life Insurance Company and the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York have violated the insurance laws of Ohio and have forfeited their legal right to do business in this state. The court is asked to exclude and oust the companies, to order them dissolved, to appoint trustees for the creditors and stockholders of the companies, collect and pay outstanding debts and carry out the contracts of Ohio policy-holders of the defendant companies, and to divide among the policyholders all the surplus profits which remain after the payment of debts and necessary expenses.

It is further asked that the court order the defendant companies to restore to Ohio policy-holders all money wrongfully dissipated and squandered, and make a true report to the insurance officers of

FATHER SHOWS HIS ABILITY TO WORK TO VOCALISTS

Contradicts "Sits Around All Day" by Applying Some Energetic Force.

"Everybody works but father" was the melody that shattered the harmony of an Oakland household which was gay in the festivities of a christening last night.

A woman's scream of murder, the rattling of broken glass, and the mournful howling of a chained dog, which accompanied "Sits around all day," failed to attract the police. However, several residents from Meyran avenue went to the Oakland police station and succeeded in inducing several officers to go to York alley, where the commotion was in progress.

A baby was being christened in the home of James Tutin, which is in the rear of 260 Louisa street, and his father-in-law, Patrick Speelman, and Tutin's brother-in-law were among the guests. During the celebration Tutin and his brother-in-law are said to have burst out in the melodious refrain: "Everybody works but father." The elder Speelman thought there was a personal inference in the verse and to prove that 55 years is not the age limit for active workers is said to have spent five minutes in cleaning up the kitchen with his son and son-in-law, much to the chagrin of the furniture, crockery and window panes. It was at this point that a woman and the chained dog joined in the chorus. The baby remained silent. No arrests were made.

ALARM ABOUT AMERICANS IN THE RUSSIAN CAPITAL

Spencer Eddy Is Instructed by the State Department to Accord United States Citizens the Protection of the Legation.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The condition of affairs in Russia formed the basis of a dispatch received at the state department today from Spencer Eddy, the American charge at St. Petersburg, who said the situation was very alarming. The dispatch was the subject of a long conference between Secretary Root, who returned to the city from New York early in the evening, and Mr. Bacon, the first assistant secretary, who has been acting as the head of the state department during Mr. Root's absence.

Mr. Eddy asked the department for instructions to meet any eventualities which might arise out of the condition of affairs as they now exist in St. Petersburg, and late in the evening these were cabled to him. One feature of these covers the question of protection to Americans residing in St. Petersburg in case of a general uprising which might endanger their lives. In the event of an outbreak they will be accorded the protection of the American embassy until further arrangements can be made for their accommodation, if such be found necessary.

It is not believed by the state department officials that there is any great number of Americans now in St. Petersburg, as most of the tourists have left the country in anticipation of the winter season.

remained, for he was compelled to climb up a narrow spiral stairway which circled about the interior of the shaft to the surface. With one arm useless and his whole body bruised, Rodney is unable to tell how he reached the surface, where he was caught by the only two men who were about the mine. They had seen the burst of smoke from the shaft and heard the muffled report from the ground underneath, and had run to the air shaft to help any of the men who might be alive and try to get out that way.

After temporarily caring for Rodney, his rescuers left for Monongahela, six miles distant, where they notified Mine Inspector Henry Louttitt of the accident. The inspector immediately organized a rescue party, which was carried to the mine on a special train. There they joined a few miners of the village, who had by this time heard of the horror and gathered at the mouth of the mine.

Volunteers to Rescue.

Inspector Louttitt, after studying a map of the mine workings, called for volunteers to enter the mine in an attempt to recover the bodies of the officials. There was a moment's hesitation and then John McVicker, Patrick Meaken and Arthur Wright agreed to enter. It was then 3 o'clock.

Supt. Hornickel's body was recovered first. After the first body was brought to the surface others joined the rescue party and within four hours after the explosion occurred all the bodies had been brought up.

Physicians at the Memorial hospital will not say Rodney will live. During periods of consciousness he told of his escape from the mine, which is now on fire.

Save for members of the rescue party, practically nothing was known of the explosion until nearly noon, owing to the fact that Hazel Kirk is isolated on Sunday. Mrs. Daniel Griffith, though living but half a mile from the mine, did not know she was a widow until 10 o'clock this morning, while residents of the eastern section of the county did not know of the explosion until tonight.

Mine Inspector Louttitt has given orders that no one enter the mine until a complete investigation of its condition has been made. There are large quantities of gas in the shaft, and the men who recovered the bodies worked in constant peril of another explosion. Nothing is being operated at the mine tonight except the air shaft machinery.

Pittsburgh Officials Expected.

Officials of the company are expected from Pittsburgh tomorrow, when, if possible, the condition of the mine will be ascertained. Coroner W. H. Sipe will begin his investigation into the disaster tomorrow morning.

John Hornickel, the dead superintendent, had been a resident of Monongahela for eight years, coming there from Youngstown, O. He was superintendent of the Monga mines before taking charge of the Hazel Kirk mines. He was a brother of Lute Hornickel, now general manager for the M. A. Hanna Coal Company and formerly general manager of the 10 mines of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Company in the third pool.

Supt. Hornickel belonged to the Monongahela lodge of Elks and the Youngstown lodge Knights of Pythias. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at his former home in Monongahela, after which the body will be removed to Youngstown, where the interment will take place Wednesday. In response to a telephone message telling of his brother's death, Lute Hornickel arrived in Monongahela this afternoon.

The Hazel Kirk Gas Coal Company, formerly an independent concern, was recently merged with the Schoenberger interests with the Westmoreland Coal Company.

WATER CURTAIN WILL PROTECT SKYSCRAPERS

Exhibition of New Safety Device Against Fire Is Given on Manhattan Life Building, New York.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Before a large number of spectators, including representatives from several fire insurance companies, a water curtain, a new invention for the protection of high buildings against fire, was tested today at the Manhattan Life building. By the use of this device it is expected the building, which is 362 feet high, will be completely protected against fire spreading from across the street and from a low adjoining building to the south of it.

The water curtain is evolved from an invention designed a year ago to protect theatrical stages from fire. A pump which will lift 500 gallons of water supplies fan nozzles attached to horizontal mains placed at the eighth and 18th stories. While the fan nozzles are in operation, the front of the building appears covered with a broad white cascade of two leaps. The court at the south, adjacent to a low building, is protected by another curtain which falls sheer 200 feet.

The Manhattan Life building is the first skyscraper to be armed with this new defense against fire.

THE BOSTON SUIT CASE MYSTERY MAY BE CLEARED BY ARREST IN PITTSBURGH

wealth of dark curly hair. For two seasons he has been with the "Shepherd King" Company and acted as secretary to the manager and during the performances sold souvenir books of the play in the lobby of the theater.

A sensation was sprung among the women of the company when they were told that their former companion was the victim of one of the most heinous crimes in modern annals. All of the young women were familiar with the details of the "suitcase mystery," and could not believe that Ethel Durrell had been the victim until the dispatches from Boston were read to them, stating that the girl's mother had identified the remains.

Deep Secrecy Maintained.

The stage attaches of the company refused to reveal the boarding places of the members of the company, and the detectives were hampered in getting the facts relating to incidents which led to Miss Durrell's disappearance.

Calls at the theatrical boarding houses in Pittsburgh and Allegheny revealed that the members of the company were widely scattered. At every house where a call was made the landlord would immediately cry out that some of the "Golden Crooks" were there or that they had members from other companies, but did not seem to recognize the "Shepherd King." At the boarding house at 402 Penn avenue was found Miss Olga Linde, who took Miss Durrell's place in the company. Another young woman in the same house who was a close friend of Miss Durrell for two years was overwhelmed with grief.

"Miss Durrell, whose name was Geary, was a lovely and beautiful girl," she said. "She was a graceful dancer and previous to joining the 'Shepherd King,' she did specialties in vaudeville. She was modest and quiet and seemed devoted to her family. She was not a girl of prepossessing beauty, but had a charm of manner that made her a favorite in the company, and she was on good terms with those who held far more exalted positions than those in the chorus.

"Her home was in Cambridge and there was no very great curiosity expressed when she failed to join the company when we left Boston. It was not till lately that alarm was felt. Of course, we have followed the developments in the suit case mystery, and when we read in The Gazette this morning that the chopped-up body was believed to be hers, we were shocked beyond expression. Yes, we know Mr. Nathan very well, but know nothing as to his possible guilt."

Mr. Lorimer last night was much perturbed about the sudden notoriety which his company received through the investigation of the Boston tragedy. He conversed for some time over the telephone with Joseph Hall, his advance agent in Baltimore, giving instructions regarding next week's business. In this conversation it developed that the physician's certificate sent by Miss Durrell to Reinold at Lowell was signed by a "P. A. Smith."

Superintendent McQuaide insisted that all papers in the matter which might be necessary as testimony should be instantly forthcoming. Reinold said he thought some letters could be procured. He went over to the Hotel Henry, and in a few minutes returned with two letters and the physician's certificate. These will be turned over to the Boston authorities.

Mother Identifies Rings.

Miss Geary, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Geary, was 21 years of age. Mrs. Geary yesterday identified at the Boston police headquarters three rings taken from the right hand found in the second dress suitcase picked up near the new Charlestown bridge on Friday last, as those worn by her daughter when she absented herself from the theatrical company on September 10.

Miss Geary dropped out of sight after that and so far as the police are concerned, they have been unable to find anyone who either saw or communicated with the girl. Ten days later, on September 21, a dress suitcase, in which was the torso of a young woman, was found floating in the harbor near the Winthrop Yacht club, about three miles below Boston, and on Friday last another suitcase containing the arms and legs of the victim was taken from the water off the city docks near the new Charlestown bridge over the Charles river.

On the fingers of the right hand were three rings, which gave the police the first tangible clew in the case. It was then found that Mrs. Geary had a missing daughter whose description tallied with that of the suitcase victim.

Mrs. Geary and her two daughters described the rings and afterward positively identified them as belonging to Susan Geary.

Mrs. Geary in an interview at her home in Cambridge, Mass., said last night:

"I had not seen my daughter for seven weeks," said Mrs. Geary, "and I have felt sure for some time that she was the victim in the case. She wore a chased gold ring on her little finger and she had also an opal ring and a garnet ring, which I gave her as a birthday present some five or six years ago. The chased ring is probably 10 years old. When I saw these rings today I had no difficulty in recognizing them as those worn by my daughter.

Suggests Operation for Appendicitis.

"I know the victim is my Susie. She complained of pains in her side just before she went away and I think she might have been operated upon for appendicitis and the doctor having made an unsuccessful operation, cut her up.

"During the summer she appeared at some of the pleasure resorts outside of Boston. She did not get this work until after some delay and she worried much over it. In July she began to get nervous and complained of pains in her side and I knew that there was something wrong with her but I thought it would soon pass away. She said if she could only go away to some quiet place for four or five weeks she would have no one to trouble her and she would feel better. I suggested that she stay with the 'Shepherd King' company while it was around Boston anyway and when it left on its long tour to then take a rest.

"Seven weeks ago today she left me. The company had closed its Boston engagement and went first to Lowell. When she left she sent me a letter which was shorter than usual and clearly showed that she was downhearted. It made me feel frightened and so I went to Lynn, where the company was then playing. She had written that she was sick with stomach trouble. I found that she had sent in a doctor's certificate to the stage manager saying that she was sick."

Mrs. Geary said that on one occasion her daughter Susie said:

"Mother, don't say anything to any reporter about me if I should go away any time, because if you do I shall never come back."

Mrs. Geary says she thought the remark a strange one, but considering the girl was nervous she attached little weight to it at the time.

Finding of the First Suit Case.

The "suit case" mystery began on the afternoon of Thursday, September 21, when the trunk of a young woman, wrapped in a piece of oilcloth and locked in a large dress suit case, was borne by the tide to a point near the pier of the Winthrop Yacht club on Shirley street, Winthrop, Mass. The floating case was discovered by Rudolph Pollard and Alfred D. Allen, yachtsmen, who induced two boys in a rowboat to bring it to the yacht club pier.

When the case was opened the torso was unrolled. Head, arms and legs had been skillfully severed, and upon the trunk there was no mark that would assist in identifying the body. A long incision had been made in the abdomen and the stomach and most of the intestines had been removed.

An autopsy developed that the woman had died of septic poisoning, probably as the result of an illegal operation. Decomposition had not set in and there were no blemishes on the torso except the cut, which appeared to have been made in an attempt to remedy the original injury done by the operation.

The appearance of the torso indicated that death had occurred about 24 hours previous to the discovery, and that the body had not been in the water more than 10 or 12 hours.

Police investigation developed the fact that the suit case had been sold a few days before by Joseph Berkman, a South End Boston pawn broker. Later, another pawn broker told of selling a case to a man who coincided with the description given by Berkman of the purchaser of the case that floated ashore at Winthrop.

Last Friday, Edward Fraser, one of the crew of the lighter B. A. Pike, which was tied up in the Charles river, near the New Charlestown bridge, saw a dress suit case floating down the river. By means of a boathook Fraser pulled the case to the deck of the lighter. Upon opening it, he found the dismembered arms and legs of a woman. These members were wrapped in oilcloth, identical in design and texture with that wrapped about the form found at Winthrop. On one hand were found three rings and these jewels led to the identification of the victim.

MURDER PUTS END TO CELEBRATION

During Slav Christening Near McDonald a Miner Is Shot to Death in Fight.

FALLS DOWN STAIRS TO DEATH

During a fight among a crowd of drunken Slavs at a christening at Primrose station, near McDonald, last evening, John Drushlick was murdered. The celebration was held in a club house conducted by Slavs employed on the mines of the Carnegie Coal Company, and during the day liquor was freely distributed among the people attending the celebration. Last evening several men began fighting and soon there was a free-for-all fight going on. During the melee Drushlick was shot. He died of his wound about an hour later.

After Drushlick's death Joseph Korinski was arrested on a charge of murder by two officers from McDonald and taken to McDonald and locked up.

David Lawler, aged 28, fell down a stairway at his boarding house, 1006 Talbot avenue, Braddock, early yesterday morning, rupturing a blood vessel in his head and dying almost instantly. Lawler awakened at about 4 o'clock and started downstairs to get a drink of water. He tripped on something at the head of the stairs and fell. The noise of his wall awakened others in the house, and he was found lying at the foot of the stairs unconscious. A doctor was summoned but Lawler was dead when he arrived. He had lived in Braddock for the past 10 months, where he was employed by the Edgar Thomson Company as a machinist. He is survived by two sisters and three brothers.

George Huyko, aged 30, of 164 Pine alley, Braddock, died yesterday from injuries received an hour before by being struck by a Baltimore & Ohio train at Thirteenth street, Braddock.

Job Dobos of West Brownsville called at the morgue yesterday and told the coroner he is too poor to bury his son, Frank, five months old, who died last Thursday at the West Penn hospital of burns received at his home on Sunday, October 22. Dobos stated that on the Sunday of the accident the child was lying sick in bed while an older brother playing in the room threw a can of kerosene into the fire. The can exploded setting fire to the contents of the room, burning the older brother so badly that he soon died. The mother was also badly burned as well as the younger child. The mother and baby were brought to the hospital, where the mother died at 11:45 o'clock. The bodies were taken to the morgue last night and will be buried today.

Martin Bonner, aged 40, of 918 Robinson street, McKees Rocks, died at the McKees Rocks hospital yesterday from injuries received by being crushed between two cars at the Pressed Steel Cars works Saturday.

ADMIRAL TOGO ADDRESSES THE DEPARTED SPIRITS

Great Shinto Rites Are Held Over the Japanese Who Were Killed in the War With Russia.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, Oct. 29.—The great Shinto rites in memory of the naval officers and men who were killed during the war, were held today at Aoyama cemetery. Besides the admirals, officers and sailors, hundreds of civil dignitaries were present. Admiral Togo addressed the departed spirits, eulogizing their noble deeds in battle and their gallant co-operation which resulted in the sacrifice of their lives. He humbly asked repose for the spirits whose exemplary deeds in life had contributed to the victory over a powerful enemy. While reading his address, Admiral Togo was seen to be stirred with strong emotion, which was in contrast with his calm demeanor while on the bridge of the Mikasa during the hottest battles.

The ceremony was most impressive and calculated to leave a lasting impression on those who witnessed it. Thousands of sailors marched to the accompanying strains of music to the cemetery and afterward to the naval club.

The evacuation of Manchuria by the Japanese is being actively carried on and troops are arriving daily at various ports. Gen. Kuroki is expected here at the middle of November.

PRESIDENT'S SHIP IS IN A STORM

Cruiser West Virginia, With Mr. Roosevelt Aboard, Plows Through Heavy Sea.

SENDS WIRELESS MESSAGES

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NORFOLK, VA., Oct. 29.—President Roosevelt is in a northeast gale off this coast tonight. The wind is beating fiercely down upon the Virginia and Carolina seaboard, and the United States armored cruiser West Virginia, flagship of the North Atlantic fleet, with the President aboard, was just south of Cape Hatteras at 9 o'clock. The squadron is expected to pass in Cape Henry before morning, to Lynn Haven bay.

Local wireless stations got in touch with the flagship this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The flagship was then 220 miles south of Hatteras "bucking" heavy seas and sticking its sharp prow into the teeth of a gale which was just gathering about that hour. The wind at Hatteras was reported from the northeast, 28 miles, and at Cape Henry, 35 miles, with a heavy sea. The flagship continued in communication with the coast wireless stations through the day. The Dolphin has arrived at Lynn Haven inlet and is there awaiting the coming of the West Virginia and escort. Upon the arrival of the flagship the President will immediately transfer to the dispatch boat and return to Washington.

Nothing has been seen or heard of the Sylph, reported to have sailed from Washington yesterday for a cruise in the bay and perhaps a trip to the Roads, under favorable weather conditions, with Mrs. Roosevelt and Archie and Ethel Roosevelt aboard.

UNITED STATES FLAGSHIP WEST VIRGINIA, OFF SAVANNAH, GA., Oct. 29.—A strong breeze from the northeast has kicked up a heavy sea, but notwithstanding these unfavorable circumstances, the squadron has maintained an average speed of 20 knots from Jupiter Light to the present point, thus breaking all records for any squadron in our navy. This morning President Roosevelt delivered a short address to the crew. The President has spent most of the day on the forward bridge with Admiral Brownson.

SAVANNAH, GA., Oct. 29.—The following wireless messages were exchanged today between the mayor of Savannah and the President on board the cruiser West Virginia:

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 29.
President Theodore Roosevelt,
On Board the U. S. S. West Virginia:
In behalf of the citizens of Savannah I congratulate you upon the capture of the southern people's hearts and wish you a safe return to the capital.
(Signed) HERMAN MYERS.
Mayor of Savannah.

U. S. Flagship West Virginia, Oct. 29.
To Mayor Herman Myers, Savannah:
I thank you and the citizens of Savannah most heartily.
(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

There was only about an hour's time intervening between the sending of the message from the mayor and the receipt of the reply from President Roosevelt.

The West Virginia at 8 o'clock tonight was almost directly opposite or east of Savannah and between 150 and 200 miles out at sea. At that time the operator aboard the West Virginia reported here that there was a strong northeast breeze blowing and a very choppy sea. All aboard were well.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29.—Mayor Behrman tonight received the following message from President Roosevelt:

On Board Flagship West Virginia, at Sea, Via Savannah, Ga., Oct. 29.
To Mayor Behrman, New Orleans:
I heartily thank you and the city of New Orleans for the magnificent hospitality extended me.
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THREE DEATHS ARE CAUSED BY BURSTING WATER MAIN

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Three lives were lost, property valued at $150,000 was destroyed, scores of families were made homeless and freight traffic on the New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad was delayed for several hours, on account of the breaking of a three-foot water main at Eighteenth and Clark streets today. Water from the burst water pipe flooded several blocks, damaging a number of business houses and residences.

Michael Barry and Patrick Barry were killed by gas in the Illinois tunnel, at Eighteenth street and Armour avenue, while attempting to ascertain whether the flood had damaged the property of the tunnel company. Mrs. Lottie Hamlin, an invalid, 70 years of age, died of shock. She awoke and found her room flooded with water.

Carelessness cost the Barry brothers their lives. Every Saturday night the air pressure in the tunnel, which is building 46 feet below the streets of Chicago, is shut off while work in the tunnel is abandoned over Sunday. To blow off collected gases, air pressure is put on the tunnel Sunday night. When the water main burst word was sent to Michael Barry, shaft superintendent, to make an investigation of the tunnel. When he reached the shaft the air pressure was not turned on, but he insisted he could make the investigation safely.

After Michael Barry had been in the shaft for half an hour, and no word had been received from him, his brother decided to follow him. Some time passed and neither man appeared. Then a rescuing party was formed, but all efforts at rescue were blocked by the condition of the air of the tunnel. Several efforts were made to get into the tunnel during the day, and during one of these attempts John Casey and Cyril Maher were temporarily asphyxiated.

So great was the force of the water that escaped from the broken main it took several hours to stop the stream.

OHIO INSURANCE SUITS

Ohio precedent to resuming business in this state. The petition recites the payment by the Mutual of $100,000 to the treasurer of the Republican national committee, the payment of $256,000 to lobbyists under the guise of attorney fees, the payment of $458,000 annually in salaries to President McCurdy and members of his family, and many other things which have been brought to light by the insurance investigation in New York. All of these payments, it is claimed, were illegal and were a wasting of the money of the policy-holders, and it is stated they were concealed in the statement furnished the insurance superintendent of Ohio in accordance with the laws of the state.

Attached to the petition are 25 interrogatories, which under the Ohio law, the defendants are obliged to answer and refusing which a judgment may be taken against the companies by default. The questions are very pointed and if answered specifically by the presidents of the two companies will bring to light many facts which the New York investigating committee has been trying to ascertain. Prosecuting Attorney Hagelbarger brings the suit on behalf of the people of Ohio, at the request of F. S. Monnett, former attorney general of Ohio and who a few years ago waged such a bitter war upon the Standard Oil Company.

In this instance, Mr. Monnett is acting for Thomas W. Lawson, who has retained him to take charge of the insurance crusade in Ohio. Attorneys have been chosen by Mr. Lawson to represent him in many other states and it is understood the suit begun here will be duplicated in other states where the insurance laws provide for accurate statements of the expenditures of companies operating within those states. In short, this is but the beginning of a campaign which has for its object the tying up of the New York Life and the Mutual Life of New York, which have been turned over so thoroughly by the Hughes committee. Associated with Mr. Monnett in this fight is the law firm of Musser, Kohler & Mottinger. The attorneys are preparing for a hard battle.

There has been a discussion among the counsel in this case as to whether the Equitable should be included among the defendants, but it has been decided to leave this company out. The reason for this conclusion is the opinion generally prevailing that Paul Morton, the new president of the Equitable, is doing all in his power to rehabilitate that company and correct the abuses that have existed. It is believed he is succeeding in his efforts, and that to class the Equitable with the New York Life and the Mutual of New York, whose presidents have refused to resign, would be to weaken their case.

Both of the defendant companies have enormous interests in Ohio, and if the suit entered against them is successful, and they are ousted from doing business in this state, it will mean a heavy loss. The New York Life, December 31, 1904, had in force in Ohio 31,428 policies representing a total insurance of $61,872,716. During that year the company collected in premiums in the state, $2,371,921.

The Ohio interests of the Mutual Life are somewhat larger. December 31, 1904, this company had in force in the state 31,032 policies representing insurance of $57,457,215. The receipts from premiums during the year were $2,074,227 74.

Prosecuting Attorney Hagelbarger, when asked about the suits today, said: "They were entered in the interests of the Ohio policy-holders in the New York Life Insurance Company and the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. Recent developments in the insurance investigation in New York have shown large sums of the policy-holders' funds to have been squandered and misappropriated by the officials of these companies. The reports of the insurance department of this state shows that each of these two great companies have more than 30,000 policy-holders in Ohio. Their insurance runs away up into the millions."

THE CZAR IS THREATENED

countless baseless reports which received credence today were that the emperor had embarked on a vessel and fled to Denmark; that Gen. Trepoff had been killed and that Vice Admiral Birileff had been assassinated by mutineers in the Black Sea.

With a strike in the government post-office tonight, communication with the interior practically ceased. Government troops were placed in the telegraph offices, but only a few lines are working. Many lines, including the land lines to the continent and to Libau, where they connect with the cable, have been cut. At 10 o'clock, however, the cable by way of Nystad and Sweden was still open. This is now the only thread connecting Russia with the outer world. Admiral Dubasoff, superintendent of posts and telegraphs, told the representative of a European power this afternoon that he could not tell how long cable communication with the continent would last.

MOSCOW, Oct. 29.—Nineteen wounded men have been brought to the University hospital as the result of an encounter between students and Royalists. The governor general has issued a proclamation warning the Royalists who wish to attack the Liberals that this will not be permitted. The city is entirely isolated. Prices of food are mounting higher and higher. The Russky Viedomosti, the most representative of the Russian journals here, prints an article demanding as the only way to restore tranquility the concession of all the demands of the people.

WARSAW, Oct. 29.—The governor has forbidden the publication of even official news concerning the riots in Russia. The authorities acknowledge the situation to be extremely serious. All the manufacturers left the city today. The theaters are closed and no newspapers are being published. The workmen in all the factories at Radom, Kielce and Kalisz have struck. Disturbances have occurred at Lodz, where several persons were wounded, and in the Opatow district, where a policeman was killed and the chief of police was wounded. The employes of the Vienna railroad have resolved to continue the strike until political liberties are granted.

TIFLIS, Oct. 29.—Complete disorder reigns here. There is rifle firing against the patrols in many quarters of the city. A bomb was thrown at a policeman. A military train has been derailed outside the city and a number of Cossacks killed. The strike is complete on all railroads in the Caucasus. All the stores and offices are closed. Even the employes of the state institutions and the headquarters of the viceroyalty have struck.

SCARES THIEF AWAY.

Harris Crawford's St. Clair Street Store Attracts Burglar for Second Time This Month.

Thieves effected an entrance into the grocery store of Harris Crawford, Rural avenue and St. Clair street, last night, but were frightened away before they secured either money or goods.

Shortly after 11 o'clock a pedestrian passing the store heard a noise within. Investigating he found the front window broken in and saw a man moving about the store. The thief heard him and made off through the rear of the store. The pedestrian went to alarm Mr. Crawford and during his absence the thief, who had evidently been looking for such a move, came back and was nearly caught.

No cash or goods was taken, as the thief was discovered shortly after he gained entrance. This is the second time Mr. Crawford's store has been robbed this month. On October 11 thieves gained an entrance by breaking the glass in the same window and rifled the cash register.

Takes Affliction Philosophically.

JEANNETTE, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—John Spangler, a printer, aged 20, of Coalport, fell from a freight train at Jeannette station this evening. The wheels ran over his legs, requiring amputation of the right foot and partial amputation of the left. Spangler did not loose consciousness and remarked he would henceforth be a "peg-leg" printer.

NO REMEDY FOR ARMY DESERTIONS

Gen. Ainsworth Declares Public Sentiment Must Change to Bring Relief.

MAKES HIS ANNUAL REPORT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Maj.-Gen. F. C. Ainsworth, the military secretary, in his second annual report, devotes considerable attention to desertions from the army, and says:

"It is safe to predict that desertion from the army will continue to be excessive until there shall have been a radical change of public sentiment toward the army and until the deserter shall come to be regarded as the criminal that he is, to be ostracised and hunted down as relentlessly as any other transgressor of the laws."

Gen. Ainsworth says the actual strength of the military establishment June 30 last, was 5,800 officers and 67,432 enlisted men in the regular army, 293 officers and 550 enlisted men in the Porto Rico provisional regiment of infantry and 108 officers and 5,039 enlisted men in the Philippine scouts, making a total of 2,834 officers and 63,022 enlisted men. The maximum strength of the regular army, not including the hospital corps, is now fixed by executive order at 60,475 enlisted men.

The losses in the regular army during the fiscal year were: Officers, killed in action or died of wounds, disease, etc., 24; resigned or discharged, 20; dismissed, 13; deserted, 2; retired, 58; total, 119. Enlisted men, killed in action or died of wounds, disease, etc., 377; discharged upon expiration of term of service, 22,554; discharged for disability, by sentence of court-martial and by order, 9,460; deserted, 6,533; retired, 180; total, 38,815.

During the year 274 battle flags in custody of the war department were returned to the governors of the states in which the regiments that bore them were raised. He says there still remains here 452 of these flags, 164 union and 288 confederate, whose former ownership or custody it has been impossible to trace.

Gen. Ainsworth suggests that these union flags be transferred to the United States military academy and that the confederate flags be given to some general confederate memorial or historical association, perhaps the Louisiana Historical association at New Orleans, La., the Southern Historical society at Richmond, Va., or the United Confederate Veterans' association.

NO HOPE OF RECOVERING SPANISH ARMORED CRUISER

Warship Is in Eighty Feet of Water. Crew Escapes With Difficulty from the Sinking Vessel.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

FERROL, SPAIN, Oct. 29.—The naval authorities have given up hope of saving the armament and hull of the Spanish armored cruiser Cardinal Cisneros, which sank yesterday near Muros, Province of Corunna, after striking a rock. The vessel is lying in a bad position in 80 feet of water.

The captain of the cruiser reports the following details of the loss:

"Shortly after leaving Muros bay for Ferrol, with the remainder of the squadron in a calm sea the Cardinal Cisneros, owing to a fog, proceeded slowly. Off Point Mexiedos, the cruiser was taking soundings when the catastrophe occurred, the vessel striking an uncharted rock with terrific violence. An enormous rent was made in her bows through which the water rushed in great volume and the ship began to sink rapidly. The crew was called to quarters and observed perfect discipline. They launched eight boats but these were not sufficient to take off the entire complement of 500 men and the remainder were rescued under difficulties by a steam trawler and several fishing smacks which stood by. The ship disappeared in less than 40 minutes."

THINKS IT JOKE WHEN ARRESTED FOR MURDER

HARRISBURG, Oct. 29.—When City Detective Beck arrested William Johnson, a negro, last night, charging him with the murder of George Bryant, a negro, Johnson laughed and thought it was a joke. Johnson admits he hit Bryant on the head with a brick on October 14. Johnson then left town and two days later Bryant died. Johnson returned to Harrisburg Saturday, not having heard that Bryant was dead, and was at once arrested.

FOOLHARDY LAD IS SHOCKED TO DEATH

FRANKLIN, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—Eugene Roach, aged 15 years, son of Sylvester Roach, climbed an electric pole today to show his younger brother how the sparks flew, when he touched his pen-knife to the wire. The wire carried 11,000 volts and the lad received a fatal shock. In falling the back of his neck struck the wire and the current nearly severed his head.

STOCKHOLDERS TO TAKE ACTION

Those Affected by Enterprise Bank Failure Will Meet to Discuss Affairs.

HOLD CLARK INQUEST TODAY

Aside from some work on the books of the Enterprise bank by the assistants of Receiver Cunningham, nothing was done in the affairs of that institution yesterday. A lot of evidence that, it is understood, is to be used in the suits already brought, and contemplated, against persons whose notes are held, was typewritten during the afternoon by Receiver Cunningham's stenographer. This and some checking of accounts consumed part of yesterday afternoon.

Attorney Thomas P. Trimble was seen last night at his residence in Perrysville avenue, Allegheny, and said there was nothing about the bank's affairs that could be told at present. He says Receiver Cunningham has laid out some legal matters that will be worked up as quickly as possible and it is presumed by this that additional suits will be started against persons owing the bank money. The determination of Receiver Cunningham is to get in at once as much of the outstanding paper as possible.

Directors Satisfied With Receiver.

Vice President William T. Bradberry said yesterday that no meeting of the board of directors was planned and he had no idea when another meeting was to be held. According to Mr. Bradberry, there is no use meeting until something is known that will give positive grounds to work upon. The directors are perfectly satisfied with the prompt and accurate work of Receiver Cunningham and appear to be willing to allow him to take what course he thinks best.

At the office of the comptroller of the currency at Washington yesterday it was denied that criminal proceedings had been brought against W. H. Andrews. The action brought against Mr. Andrews is a civil suit. Deputy Comptroller T. P. Kane said:

"Receiver Cunningham has nothing to do with the prosecution of any criminal cases, if any should grow out of the failure. Aside from this, the investigation has not progressed to that point at which any criminal prosecution can be started even if the evidence should warrant it."

Dunkle Must Take Action.

Any criminal suits that may result from the examination of the Enterprise bank accounts will be the result of the investigation being made by Special Examiner Moxey, who is working in the capacity of representative of Comptroller Ridgely. Mr. Moxey's report goes to United States District Attorney Dunkle and the latter is empowered through the department of justice to act in criminal cases.

The prospective assessment on the stockholders of the Enterprise bank, as outlined on Saturday by Receiver Cunningham, will put action into the affairs of the insolvent institution this week. So far no meeting of stockholders has been called, but this will likely be done within the next day or two.

In indicating that under the national banking laws the stockholders would be held responsible for 100 per cent of the face of the stock, Receiver Cunningham clearly made public his opinion of the financial condition of the bank. It is now realized that Cashier Clark's operations were as broad and far-reaching as was predicted by President Fred Gwinner the day the bank was closed. It removes all doubt as to the bank's insolvency and is proof that the failure is complete and there is small hope of the bank opening its doors for some time to come.

The inquest into the death of T. Lee Clark, cashier of the Enterprise bank, who shot and killed himself on the morning of October 18 at his Bellevue residence, will be held this morning at the coroner's office. Coroner Joseph G. Armstrong has been confined to his home for several weeks by illness, but expects to be able to personally conduct the inquest. All those who it is thought can throw any light on the tragedy have been summoned and it is promised the inquest will be thorough.

IMPROVING OAKMONT.

Borough Spending $45,000 for Better Streets and County Will Also Lend a Hand.

A small army of men and score or more of teams have just started the work of improving the streets at Oakmont for which the borough recently approp a ed $45,000. Grading of H, E and B streets will be completed this fall and the paving done in the spring. H street leads from Hulton station to the Oakmont Country club. It will be widened to 60 feet, paved with brick, and a brick walk 15 feet wide will also be included in the improvements.

The improvements mean much to the club, which will, when the work is done, put on monster automobiles for passenger service between the station and the club. Building in the vicinity of the club house will receive an impetus by the improvements and many new suburban homes will spring up.

The county will also expend $35,000 on three miles of road from Milltown to the gates of the club house. This will be done in the spring. When this work is done there will be a complete Flinn road from the club house into Frankstown avenue. There is already a macadam road from Lincoln avenue through Verona to the club.

WILL REOPEN LIBRARY.

Braddock Institution Improved by Aid of Andrew Carnegie's Gift.

A reception will be held this evening at the Carnegie library, Braddock, to celebrate the re-opening after the completion of $30,000 worth of repairs. Andrew Carnegie gave the institution $25,000 as a Christmas gift and this with several thousand dollars in addition, has been expended. A new swimming pool, new marble baths, new bowling alleys and other fittings were installed. The building was refloored, rewired and redecorated throughout.

Thomas Morrison, president of the board of trustees, will preside at a platform meeting to be held during the evening, and addresses will be made by Charles E. Dinkey, superintendent of the Edgar Thomson steel works; Supt. Grant Norris of the Braddock public schools, and Librarian George Lamb. A recital will be given by Organist Walter E. Hall and the boy choir of Trinity church.

New Trust Company for Braddock.

Application will be made next month for a charter for the Bessemer Trust Company, a title insurance concern organized in Braddock, which will be affiliated with the Braddock National bank. John C. Kelly, president of the bank; J. T. Corey, the coal merchant, and Charles A. Anderson are the incorporators.

At the hearing at the South Side station house yesterday morning, George W. Young, who shot George Modine in the ankle, was held in $1,000 bail to await the result of Modine's injuries. The men had an altercation over wages. Modine is at South Side hospital and the wound is said not to be serious.

FUSION TICKET TO MEET DEFEAT

Machine Will Devote Its Efforts to Making a Good Showing in Pittsburgh.

MAY "BLOW" BIGELOW STATUE

The last week in the local campaign finds the Bigelow machine disorganized and its ticket defeated. All hope of winning has been abandoned by Director Bigelow and he is now concentrating his efforts to make the best possible showing in Pittsburgh in the hope it will help him in the mayoralty election next February.

Republican County Chairman T. J. Ford is confident he has the fight won and during this week big gains will be made. He has fought for the whole Republican ticket. Every candidate has stood shoulder to shoulder and excellent work has been done. Just the opposite has been the case in the fusion ranks. It has been a cut-throat game with that crowd since the opening of the campaign and during this week orders will be issued by the bosses to try to save Denny O'Neil, Robert Cunningham and Alexander Dempster.

Already all sorts of propositions are being made to Republicans to cut their tickets to aid any one of those three candidates. Bigelow is particularly anxious to have Dempster elected as the minority member of the board of county commissioners. To do this he will have to defeat James A. Clark, the Democratic nominee on the fusion ticket.

From the opening of the fusion campaign Clark's friends have been running a campaign in the interest of their candidate. Democrats, Citizens and Republicans are being solicited to vote plumpers for Clark. In the Frankstown avenue district the word is being passed out that Dempster is a Prohibitionist. This is supposed to drive the Democrats away from him. Bigelow is responsible for the candidacy of Dempster and it will be up to him to force the payroll to make a personal fight for the Citizens nominee for commissioner.

Every effort will be made to swell the vote in Pittsburgh. Thousands of tax receipts have been secured by the Citizens and they will try to use them in the first 13 wards of the city. The Republicans know how many of these receipts are to be used and are confident the game can be blocked.

Other schemes will be worked in hope public sentiment can be aroused against the Republican ticket. It may be that an abandoned plan in the Hays-Haymaker mayoralty fight will be used. During the closing days of that contest an enthusiastic supporter of Hays conceived the idea of destroying the Bigelow monument in Schenley park. He figured the blame would be placed on the Republicans and several thousand votes switched from Haymaker to Hays. Managers of the Hays campaign gave the matter serious consideration and finally decided they could win without "blowing" the monument.

All of the details of the destruction of the monument had been worked out. A safe "blower" who lived in Allegheny had been hired to do the work. He was paid $100. In the hope of placing the blame on the Republicans, a battery belonging to Booth & Flinn was stolen and was to be used. This publication will probably protect the monument for this campaign.

CHANGED IDENTIFICATION AROUSES IRE OF GROCER

Small Boy Accuses Italian Who Ducked Cabbage With Being Primary Cause of Trouble.

The other day you say your name vas Staney Kimble und you lif in Pius strasse. Today you tell der judge your name vas Staney Koski und you lif in Breed strasse. Vere you lif tomorrow und vat will your name pe den?

This query was put excitedly by Grocer George Englemohr of 1508 Sarah street, to one of five small culprits before the South Side police magistrate yesterday morning.

On Friday night an Italian peddler was passing Englemohr's store. One of the boys threw a cabbage head at the Italian, but he ducked and the missile went through the grocer's window. The boys fled with the grocer in pursuit. Englemohr caught one, who gave his name and address as Staney Kimble of Pius street. The grocer made an information against Staney, and he and his four companions were arrested. At the hearing the grocer was provoked when Staney gave the magistrate another name and address. Englemohr was unable to testify that he saw any one of the prisoners throw the cabbage, but they admitted the offense, Staney declaring, boy-like:

"You ought to arrest the Dago. If he hadn't juked, the cabbage wouldn't have gone through the window."

The parents of the boys settled for the window and all were discharged.

SCANDRETT MAKES DENIAL.

Allegheny Safety Director Says He Had No Agreement With Wilkinson, Who Fixed Wilson Jury.

Director Thomas B. Scandrett of the Allegheny public safety department returned yesterday from New York, where he was on Saturday when Samuel C. Wilkinson charged the director with complicity in fixing the jury in the trial of Capt. James Wilson of the Allegheny police. Director Scandrett was asked to reply to the assertions made by Wilkinson to Judge Macfarlane and said:

"All I will say is that I never had any dealings whatever with this man Wilkinson."

Richard McCormick, who was mentioned by Wilkinson, and in whose Ohio street saloon the plot is said to have been hatched, was spoken to. He and Director Scandrett were together in city hall last night. McCormick said:

"This man Wilkinson is notorious as a dealer in untruths."

This is as much as McCormick would say.

Crap Game Ends in Fight.

Guy Campbell of Alexandria, Va.; Sam Smith of Richmond, Va.; Budd Johnson of Dayton, O., and William Harris of Martinsburg, W. Va., all negroes, are locked up in No. 4 police station as the result of a fight over a crap game at the Schenley farms early yesterday morning. Harris, it appears, was winning most of the money. The others charged him with cheating and attacked him with razors. Inspector James McAvoy and a squad of officers broke up the fight before anyone was hurt and arrested Harris. The others got away, but were arrested at 10:30 last night.

WHITE SLAVERY AND ITS CURE

Hill District Jews, Trying to Eradicate the Evil, Form a League to Do It With.

SOCIALIST FAILS TO IMPRESS

The Hill District Anti-Vice league was formed last night to combat the white slave evil that honeycombs the district. The opinion was expressed at the meeting that the police are in league with the men who make their living off the earnings of disreputable women. So great was the feeling in the audience that when Isidor Kerber, a Socialist candidate for office, tried to bring politics into the gathering he was cried down by his own followers and compelled to desist. Kerber wanted to revise the whole political system of the country before grappling with the evil. The audience preferred to eradicate immediately the foulness that surrounds their homes.

The meeting was held in Licht's hall in Fifth avenue, and about 150 persons were present. It was a Jewish meeting, for it is among the Jews of Pittsburgh, as among the Jews of the East Side in New York, that the white slave evil has made its greatest inroads, and has therefore aroused the Jews to the greatest resentment.

Wallace Had Not Acted.

Henry Amdursky called the meeting to order. Adolph Edlis was elected temporary chairman and Dr. S. P. Lieber temporary secretary. Mr. Edlis said he had been informed that 95 per cent of the men who live from the earnings of disreputable women in Pittsburgh were Jews; that his audience knew that the evil had fastened on the Jewish community in the hill district, so that Jewish girls were not safe from insult in the streets and Jewish young men were exposed to the temptations presented by the sight of the prosperity and idleness in which the "cadets" lived. He urged that an association be formed; that that association hire detectives and prosecute the men responsible for the evil, so that they either be driven out of Pittsburgh or sent to the penitentiary. He said that he had often called on Superintendent of Police Wallace to prosecute the evil-doers, but Wallace had never acted.

At this point the Hill District Anti-Vice league was formed. Mr. Edlis was elected president, although he tried to decline the place; Max Robin was elected secretary and Henry Amdursky treasurer. President Edlis announced that he would appoint the executive committee later.

New Name for Hill District.

Attorney A. C. Stein characterized the hill district as the "hell district," and said that the wickedness in it equalled that of Sodom and Gomorrah. The police, from the superintendent down to the policeman on the beat, knew of the men who live from the earnings of disreputable women.

"We have in Pittsburgh," said Mr. Stein, "the vilest, filthiest police officials that any community was ever cursed with."

He thought proper investigation would prove that the police wilfully failed to carry out the laws against the men who loaf in disorderly houses, and that they could be successfully prosecuted for dereliction in office. Pittsburgh and Allegheny were the only cities in the country which had extended the right hand of fellowship to these men, who were driven out of New York and Philadelphia.

Dr. S. P. Lieber made a few remarks and then Isidor Kerber, the Socialist, took the floor. Kerber said that men who worked for $6 a week ought not to be blamed for becoming procurers; that the political system under which such things were possible was at fault; it was not advisable to drive such men out of the hill district, for for every five banished 50 would spring up. Kerber was soon cried down.

Should Drive Evil from City.

Max Robin made an impassioned address asking that the evil be driven from the city. He mentioned the case of a young man who came from Russia and fell into the hands of "Big Sam, the king of the Pittsburgh procurers," was ostracised by his family and finally died a miserable death.

Mr. Robin did not know that "Big Sam" was present, and he afterward said he would have been glad to face him right there had not Sam slipped out.

Another meeting will be held at the call of the chair. In the meantime the organization will start to work, raise money, employ detectives and endeavor to drive out the evil and punish any police official who continues to protect it.

BOYS LASSO WOMAN AND DRAG HER FROM HER HOME

Mrs. Mary Reed of Fourth street, Braddock, was lassoed last evening by boys committing Halloween pranks. They threw rubbish into her hall and broke a chandelier. When she went outside to protest she was encircled with a rope and dragged to a fence surrounding her yard, where she managed to free herself.

SNAKES AND FLATWHEEL LOSE ROLLS AND WATCH

Complain to the Police and Rags and Hobo Are Promptly Gathered In.

Charles Ryan, alias "Rags," and John O'Donnell, alias "Hobo," were arrested yesterday on a complaint of two men who gave their names as "Flatwheel" and "Snakes." The men were linemen, and came from Carnegie to this city Saturday. They all had been paid. Saturday night they stopped at the Sherman House, and it is alleged that Ryan and O'Donnell stole $20 and a watch from "Snakes," and $20 from "Flatwheel."

"Flatwheel" had part of his foot cut off a year ago, and he placed his money in his shoe, and "Snakes" did the same thing. When they got up yesterday morning Ryan and O'Donnell were gone and "Flatwheel's" and "Snakes" money were missing. A complaint was made at the police bureau and Ryan and O'Donnell were arrested by Special Officer Buckley. The men denied stealing the money.

"Professional Men" in the Toils.

Two men who claimed successively to be physicians, druggists and medical students were given a hearing before Magistrate Moke at No. 5 police station yesterday morning. They had been arrested at 1 a. m. by Officer Patrick O'Brien on Penn avenue. They were going to drug stores and asking for whisky, threatening to make trouble when refused. One of them, who gave the name of E. J. Herrington, paid $1 and costs, and the other, C. P. Daugherty, not having the money, went to jail for five days.

Italian Is Fatally Stabbed.

John Peapy, an Italian, is in the McKeesport hospital in a dying condition, suffering from a deep knife wound in the chest. While engaged in a fight that followed a drunken spree Peapy was stabbed, it is said, by George Leiber, at the latter's house in Pearl street, McKeesport. All those who were in the house escaped before the police arrived. The McKeesport police and the county detectives are looking for Leiber and those who were witnesses to the affray.

Woman Is Thrown from Buggy.

Mrs. George Kraft, wife of the hotel proprietor of Grant avenue, Millvale, is at her home suffering from shock and injuries received by being thrown from her buggy yesterday afternoon. She was driving out the Butler plank road when the horse took fright and ran away. The rig was upset and Mrs. Kraft thrown into the road.

Monday, October 30, 1905.

County detectives raided a gambling place, early yesterday morning, just across the street from the Oakland police station. It is idle to pretend the police did not know the character of the place. The truth is the police are allowing privileges to such places as a part of the campaign in which each officer is expected to deliver 10 votes.

Today the French parliament will reassemble and it is expected will soon dispose of the bill for the separation of church and state. The measure is now well understood by the French people and there is no longer any doubt it is approved by a majority of them. This fact was clearly indicated in the last elections, but the sentiment appears to have grown stronger since then.

Pittsburgh steel rails are going to Mexico for the construction of trolley roads and Pittsburgh electrical machinery is going everywhere. This city is contributing its full share to the growing exports of American manufactured products. Pittsburgh brains and Pittsburgh skill are winning the recognition that is their due and now no great industrial task is thought to be well provided for without Pittsburgh men to help perform it.

Pittsburgh will give some attention to its artistic side this week, in connection with the Founder's day exercises of Carnegie institute. On Thursday will occur the formal public exercises, the interesting addresses of Gen. Greeley and Melville Stone. These will precede the opening of the art galleries to the public and the beginning of the orchestra season. Pittsburgh's artistic side is no longer a novelty, but an important part of the civic life.

It is estimated by the department of commerce and labor the foreign commerce of the United States for the current year will exceed $1,000,000,000. Products of manufactures now comprise nearly 49 per cent of the total exports from this country—a marked increase from a decade since. Agricultural exports have diminished slightly and products of mines have increased, but manufactures have gone up so rapidly as to nearly equal them both.

Our staff correspondent in Ohio wires that headquarters estimates give Gov. Herrick 75,000 plurality in next week's election. Candidate Pattison has passed the zenith of his popularity and is going backward. This is the usual course of campaigns in Ohio, but in this instance the slump promises to be out of the ordinary. Judge Taft's speech exploded the bossism bugaboo, and the temperance people are beginning to realize they have no real affiliation with the Democratic party.

In Tokyo yesterday impressive Shinto rites were performed in honor of the dead of the Japanese navy. Admiral Togo was the central figure in the ceremonies, making a solemn address to the spirits of the dead. These rites may jar on the sensibilities of some western world Christians, but it must be remembered a majority of the Japanese people still adhere to the Shinto faith. The ceremonies must be interpreted as a tribute to Japanese heroism, in the form that is best understood by the masses—a mere patriotic observance.

This week will be a strenuous one in the state campaign, though it is likely it will not do much to affect the result. The arguments have been made, in the main, and new arguments will not be heard as calmly as might be. The Democrats and other elements opposed to the Republican party have exhausted their ammunition. They have overdone their part, grossly exaggerated their lines, and there will naturally be a reaction favorable to the Republican candidates. The vast majority of Pennsylvania voters are Republicans on election day.

The statement of Bishop Mallalieu of the Methodist Episcopal church in which he expresses hopes for the defeat of Gov. Herrick is not only based on misinformation, but is at strange variance with the views held by the bulk of the membership of his church in Ohio. It is true that many communicants of the Methodist church have been led astray by the mud-slingers, but the vast and reasonable majority of the Ohio Methodists will be found voting in November as they have always prayed. The Brannock law, which seems to be the bete noir of the Anti-Saloon league, has been demonstrated to be the most effective anti-saloon legislation ever written into the statute books of Ohio. "Reformers" can retard the cause of temperance by insisting on the unattainable.

The Unclouded Issue.

There is danger that some voters in this county may be diverted from the real issue by the insistent clamor about other things. The sole question for the voter to answer a week from tomorrow is whether the perfidious Democratic-Citizens organization, which has for nearly three years misgoverned Pittsburgh and Allegheny, shall be further intrenched in power. That is what the Bigelow-Verner-Hays-Wyman combination is working for, that is what it is assessing the police and firemen for, that is its sole object.

It will help the voter to decide where he stands on this question to recall how the Hays and Wyman administrations came into power—the promises that were made, the pledges that were given. There was no question of men in that campaign, for the men on the Democratic-Citizens tickets had no records or standing to be proud of. It was the "principles they stood for." It was promised there should be no more grants of franchises without compensation; there should be no more graft; there should be no more police protection for vice; there was to be no more assessment of public servants for partisan purposes; there were to be no more delinquent tax collectors. It was promised there was to be a clean administration of public affairs; the laws and ordinances were to be enforced; there was to be a reduction in public expenditures, accompanied by increased efficiency in the public service. All of these things were solemnly pledged to the voters whose votes were wanted.

Not one single pledge has been redeemed; not one promise kept.

There has been most shameful grant of public franchises without compensation; grants for the benefit of "Citizens party leaders and their financial backers."

Graft has run riot; vice is protected and encouraged by the police.

Public employes are assessed more heavily than ever before for partisan purposes.

Expenditures have increased, while the public service has deteriorated.

Scandal and turmoil have been the constant features of these administrations inaugurated under the pretext of reform; the incessant watchword of the organization has been "Loot."

If the stakes in the approaching election were merely a few county offices the pledge-breaking aggregation would allow them to go by default. It is fighting for an indorsement of its vile administration of city affairs; for a "vindication" of its corrupt practices. It wants a new lease of the power to loot and to oppress the people. Every vote for a Citizens party candidate is a vote in approval of graft and plunder. Every vote for the Democratic-Citizens ticket is an indorsement of perfidy and of theft of the public property.

City Controller Larkin—before he was elected again—shouted "it has stolen goods in its pockets." The goods are there yet. Mr. Larkin declared of this aggregation "it has been false to every pledge." Not one has yet been redeemed. The supreme duty of every voter on election day is to cast his ballot so it shall rebuke perfidy, denounce graft, condemn theft of public property and repudiate insolent abuse of power. That can be done only by voting the Republican ticket.

Campaigns in Other States.

Four states will choose governors on November 7—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Virginia and Ohio. As this is what is called an "off year" it was not imagined that any general interest would attend the elections to be held, but in several states the campaigns have been warmer than in presidential years. Ohio has taken the lead in the heated canvass column, in mud slinging and calumny, all directed toward Gov. Herrick. It has been one of the most remarkable contests for the governorship in the history of Ohio politics, owing to the strange combinations that have been made to defeat the Republican party. As usual the Democrats started the campaign with their candidate elected. As the election day draws nearer the more certain is the triumph of Herrick over foes of malignancy, vituperation and false witness.

In Rhode Island the contest has been sharp, but the Republican candidate for governor will be elected, though the count may be close. In 1904, Gov. Utter defeated Gov. Garvin, Democrat, by only 856 plurality. Utter is now running for re-election against the same opponent he had last year. Massachusetts has strayed over into the Democratic column several times on governorship contests, but this year it is pretty well assured the Republican candidate will win easily. With the negro question entirely eliminated from the campaign the Virginia Republicans are taking on new hope of electing their candidate for governor. It is not among the improbabilities, as the ticket is getting a good deal of Democratic support.

The fight in Maryland over the iniquitous Poe amendment is attracting national attention, as on the result depends the political life or death of Senator Gorman. The special element interest in this contest is the pronounced revolt in the Democratic party against the unscrupulous tactics of Gorman. With a full Republican vote out and the aid assured from Democrats, Gormanism ought to be forever smothered in that state.

The old fight against Tammany has been revived in New York city with some of the old-time vigor. There is no fusion of forces except in the case of District Attorney Jerome, who is running independent, but with his name recently placed on the Republican ticket. The candidacy of Hearst for mayor on the Municipal Ownership platform is aggressive, and may divert enough Democratic votes to elect Ivins, the Republican candidate, and to defeat McClellan. The retirement of Judge Flammer for district attorney and the substitution of Jerome on the Republican ticket improves Ivins' chances and practically assures the re-election of Jerome.

Russia's Revolution.

Conditions in Russia are going from bad to worse while the Emperor Nicholas hesitates over granting the "four liberties" demanded by Count Witte. These are liberty of speech, press, conscience and person. Why the Russian ruler should hesitate to grant these requests, upon which Count Witte conditions his acceptance of the difficult task of restoring order and regenerating Russia, it is not easy to see at this distance.

Conflicts between the troops and revolutionaries are reported from various districts, though communication is much hampered by strikes of telegraph operators. There may be worse news to come than that borne by the wires yesterday. The trouble in the telegraph service also hampers the Russian government in the dissemination of orders.

At Moscow, the ancient capital, a provisional government has been organized and communication with St. Petersburg has been cut off. What plots may be hatching the government cannot know. In other cities the gun stores and arsenals have been looted by the mobs, a manifestation of sinister import. All of these things must be known to Nicholas, yet he vacillates. Ere this he should have conceded Count Witte's requests, or have ordered the rebellion put down by force. Presently there will be no chance to save the throne by either means. Count Witte may become dictator without the necessity for taking counsel with the czar.

Public Misinformation.

Veterans of the civil war living in Pittsburgh are greatly interested in the addition being built to the Soldiers' and Sailors' home at Erie, one of the great institutions of the Keystone state. * * * At the election on Tuesday, November 7, the voters of Allegheny county will render a decision as to whether they want such a home established in this county, whether the taxpayers are willing to stand a small increase in taxation for the purpose of supporting such an institution. It is not a party issue, but simply one of taking care of the disabled veterans of the rebellion. This article about the Erie home is, therefore, of timely interest, not only to the old soldiers, but to the general public of the "great state of Allegheny."

The above quotation is from the Pittsburgh Leader, which alleged that Berry was nominated by the recalled Democratic convention of August 16, with "like unanimity," the comparison being with the indorsement by acclamation of John Stewart for supreme court justice. It is of a piece with the political misinformation habitually handed out by the Leader, along with its arrogant assumption of superior intelligence.

It may be assumed that almost every intelligent citizen of Allegheny county knows there is no question of the establishment of a soldiers' home to be submitted to the voters of "the great state of Allegheny." The only question before them, aside from the election of officers, state and county, is the approval of the project for erecting a memorial hall in honor of the soldiers and sailors of Allegheny county who fought and bled in defense of the nation. We have no doubt the intelligent and patriotic voters will approve this project, the subject of enactment by two legislatures, four times recommended by Allegheny county grand juries and approved by the court. A matter so long before the public ought to be thoroughly understood by everybody—the Leader always excepted.

This same Leader is daily frothing at the mouth while it offers advice to citizens how they ought to vote and for whom they should vote. We respectfully submit to these citizens, however, that a paper so grossly ignorant of public affairs, or so miserably negligent in its statements is not a safe guide on any subject. Its advice is merely according to its unstable whim and its support of men or measures is an argument against them. The Leader never could be right by reason and it rarely is so by accident.

There will be no Poe amendment grafted on the Maryland constitution. Marylanders are not ready to surrender the franchise to the whim of factional election officers.

Gov. Herrick's prospects have distinctly brightened during the past two weeks. It is the old story of Democracy slumping as election day approaches.

When county detectives have to close gambling rooms right in front of police stations the plea of ignorance is a plea of utter incompetence.

When it comes to discussion of the Prudential Trust Company, Homer Castle rises above personalities.

St. Paul's orphans believe one good turn deserves another, and they did the good turn yesterday.

One issue in Allegheny county, Good government as opposed to pledge breaking and inefficiency.

There is no war in Russia, but the conditions resemble Gen. Sherman's description of war.

And then, the Allegheny city bunch are Citizens, too, rooting for the Citizens ticket.

One thing the public will be spared. There will be no Cunliffe play.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

There Is No Sense in Trying to Make Something Out of Nothing.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

A pin head is a pin head, and that is about all there is to it.

If you use a hammer on it you only disfigure it without making it more useful or beautiful.

If you use a file you only cut away what little material there is, and that without fitting it for better uses.

It is possible to swell it some by a tedious stuffing process, but that is done at the expense of solidity and shapeliness.

Therefore it is safe to conclude that a pin head is at its best as a pin head, and let it go at that. To attempt to make anything else of it would be to spoil a pin.

A pin isn't much, but it is something, therefore worth letting alone, if nothing else.

Simple and trifling as it is, can you make a pin, or do you know how pins are made, how many are turned out daily?

The daily output is something over a million. As it takes that number to meet the daily demand it is reasonable to conclude that a like number are lost, destroyed or put out of use each day.

Figures have been printed showing how many miles of wire it takes to make a million pins, and machines have been described that make them so rapidly that they fall in perfect showers.

Then there are other machines that polish them, stick them in papers, fold and deliver in packages ready for delivery to dealers.

You may be able to get more detailed information from some one who deals in pins and needles.

A second reading of the query to which the foregoing was written as an answer, causes a doubt as to the kind of pin head our correspondent had in his head when he wrote for "a few remarks on pinheads."

A hyphen makes a lot of difference sometimes, for there are pinheads, pin heads and pin-heads; that is, of one word, two words and hyphenated.

A little further on he says he doesn't know what use society can make of pinheads, and yet they are to be found in what purports to be the best society.

He can hardly refer to heads of pins, for society could scarcely get along without them. How could society folks keep their clothes on if it were not for pins with heads?

These, however, are not hyphenated—parted in the middle, as it were. The real pin head, you know, is not divided or hyphenated.

Society has to put up with so many peculiar and even nondescript things that it has acquired the habit of making the best of the very worst.

Indeed it is surprising what it can do with next to nothing, in the way of making a show; and show seems to count for a good deal as society goes.

You may have known some society-made folks who couldn't have been made by any other process, either natural or mechanical. As the social process is not according to fixed natural laws, but arbitrary and uncertain, it is possible for it to turn out pin-heads, mullet-heads, sap-heads and various other varieties of the hyphenated type. And it doth appear that society is rather partial to the hyphen.

The pin-head may not be of much use in the practical, matter-of-fact world, but that does not spoil it for use in society, the world in which show is the main thing.

Society isn't the social world, it is only in it. Like many other good words, society has come to signify an exclusive class, exclusive in that it shines with a luster peculiarly its own. The peculiar luster is intended to dazzle and to blind the work-a-day folks, the common herd, so called.

This peculiar glare is a dazzler no doubt, and often a blinder, too, but it is a question whether it dazzles most those who shine or those who are shone upon. The probabilities are that it blinds the shiners more than the beholders, but being blinded themselves they cannot see the effect their lustrousness has on those whom they would dazzle.

A pin-head may be one who thinks he is to all mankind what he is in his own estimation—a sweet thing, a good thing, the whole thing.

Being thus dazzled he can't possibly see the smirks, the grins and the funny looks of the folks who constitute the crowd in the practical world. Or seeing them, he mistakes them for signs of admiration and approval.

Monkeys are apt to take seriously the fun you poke at them. And so do children in their tenderer years.

If these few remarks do not cover the ground, our correspondent will have to write more explicitly—send a diagram, and spell out the signs and abbreviations.

Was it the pin-headed American that Edgar Fawcett had in mind when he wrote of the Anglo-mania:

"We are not prepared in any foolish manner
The vulgarities of Uncle Sam to screen;
We dislike to hear that dull 'Star Spangled Banner,'
But we thoroughly respect 'God Save the Queen.'

"We revere the Prince of Wales, though he should prick us
With a sneer at the republic we obey!
We would rather let his Royal Highness kick us
Than have been bosom friend of Henry Clay."

There Ought, Indeed.

"Not being a resident of New York city, I am not sure that I ought to concern myself with its municipal politics," writes ex-President Cleveland to Mayor McClellan. The people of New York are quite sure that he ought not to concern himself with trying to fasten the corrupt rule of Tammany on this city for four years. There ought to be better business than that for an ex-President.—New York Tribune.

Like Those "Just as Good" Articles.

Those who have had any experience with the "just as good" variety of articles that are sometimes substituted for the "real thing" will appreciate the character of the amusing "Lincoln party" that has been galvanized into existence in Lackawanna county. We all know that the "just as good" article bears the same relation to the genuine that the toadstool does to the mushroom.—Scranton Truth.

The Proper Inquiry.

When speaking of a life insurance magnate the question, "Where did he get it?" must give way to "When will he give it back?"—New York Herald.

WHEN THE WOODS TURN BROWN.

How will it be when the roses fade
Out of the garden and out of the glade?
When the fresh pink bloom of the sweetbriar wild,
That leans from the dell like the cheek of a child,
Is changed for dry lips on a thorny bush?
Then scarlet and carmine the groves will flush.

How will it be when the autumn flowers
Wither away from their leafless bowers;
When the sunflower and starflower and goldenrod,
Glimmer no more from the frosted sod,
And the hillside nooks are empty and cold?
Then the forest tops will be gay with gold.

How will it be when the woods turn brown,
Their gold and their crimson all dropped down
And crumbled to dust? Oh, then, as we lay
Our ear to earth's lips we shall hear her say,
"In the dark I am seeking new gems for my crown"—
We will dream of green leaves when the woods turn brown.

—Lucy Larcom.

REAL CARD SHARP WHO TURNS ROBBER

After Piling Up Loot, Three Men Play Poker and Show Remarkable Hands.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—There would seem to have been a card sharp among the thieves who robbed the home of Edward C. Anderson in Fifty-eighth street, some time during the absence of the family. At any rate, three remarkable hands at poker were found on the table in the dining-room, where the thieves drank a few bottles of wine and evidently gambled for the plunder. The hands were three kings and a pair of queens, a straight, and four deuces. It doesn't require the mind of a Sherlock Holmes to deduce the probable fact that the dealer of the hand held the four deuces and took the pot, which probably included all the loot gathered up in the house. The thieves apparently took their time about the robbery, and had no fear of the police. The loot was worth thousands of dollars, and included many valuable paintings. Instead of cutting the paintings from the frames, the usual mode of procedure with men in a hurry, they carefully removed them without damaging the canvas.

Perhaps it is because of the number of political meetings held in Carnegie hall, which is in the neighborhood, that the thieves have been so busy in this vicinity during the past two weeks. At least a half-dozen robberies and hold-ups have occurred in the neighborhood recently, and the police have been too busy to capture any of the thieves. A robbery in Fifty-fourth street netted the thieves $2,500 in jewels.

Tammany Is Working Hard.

The political situation has thrown a scare into Tammany hall this year, and, though there doesn't seem to be much of a chance to defeat Mayor McClellan, the Fourteenth street crowd is busier than ever before in its existence. Last night, for instance, 60 political rallies were held in an effort to keep the Democratic forces in line. All the candidates are talking themselves hoarse, and if they lose there will have been lots of energy wasted. Mr. Cleveland is not the only Democrat of national importance to put in an oar. John G. Carlisle's voice was heard at the Carnegie hall meeting last night. Leader Murphy expresses great confidence in the result, but in the same breath is ordering his cohorts to make every effort to keep the voters in line.

Canfield Bets on Sentiment.

It would look as though Mr. Richard Canfield, the artistic gambler whose place was like a palace until District Attorney Jerome got into action, had lost his gambler sense. He has unbuckled his roll and is laying odds that Osborne, the Democratic nominee, will be elected district attorney. The wish is probably father of the bet in this case, as Mr. Canfield hopes to resume his profession in New York should Mr. Jerome be defeated. However, with Jerome's name on the Republican ticket, it would seem a good bet that he will win. He has thousands of friends in Tammany hall, and they are going to vote for him, too. His chance of winning grows brighter as Osborne talks. It is to be hoped that the Tammany candidate may not lose his voice before the campaign ends.

Latest in Garden Shows.

The latest to invade Madison Square garden, the home of the exposition, is the National Business Exhibition, which opened last night and continues through next week. Every sort of mechanical aid to business is to be seen in the garden and thousands of people are showing their interest. There will also be contests in adding, multiplying, etc., by machinery, and typewriting while blindfolded. Then there is to be a voting contest in which the most popular stenographer is to be selected. Next Saturday night somebody is to receive a prize.

An Interesting Monument.

Under the above heading, the Evening World pays this tribute to the Pittsburgh brand of building material: "The wreckers who are demolishing the Plaza hotel are reported to have found it necessary to use dynamite to displace the steel uprights. The framework of the building shows no deterioration and is said by the superintendent in charge to be in a state of perfect preservation. This testimony to the durability of steel construction is important. The structure is likewise interesting as a monument to honest building methods, of which the city furnishes thousands of examples." The Plaza was for many years the stopping place of many prominent Pittsburghers. It is to be succeeded by a much larger and more pretentious hotel.

Several Artistic Hold-Ups.

"Art in hazing" naturally follows the rage for art in all things in this latter day. It was an artistic job that was done by the members of the Art Students' league. The new members were captured one by one and tied to posts in the league barracks. There they remained until they ransomed themselves by the payment of $2. So long as tied up they were regaled with sweet cider, but when they paid their ransom, they were allowed the privilege of drinking beer—purchased from the ransom money. The hold-ups continued all night, and at daylight those who could went home. The rest of the party were satisfied with the floor for beds.

VAST CITY OF SALT UNDER THE GROUND

Most Remarkable Place in the World—Where Men Work, Live and Worship.

Visitors to Northwich will have been struck with the many interesting sights and curiosities of this salt-producing center, but Northwich cannot boast of half the wonders that exist in Wieliczka, an obscure Polish Austrian town, and the principal center of the salt industry of Galicia. For thousands of years generations of men have hewn and labored in this wonderful city, carved and tunneled deep down in the bowels of the earth, and many of them and their children have spent the best years of their lives without having been above ground at all. It is the same with the horses, hundreds of them having been born, bred, worked and died without ever seeing the light of day or enjoying the luxury of browsing on the earth's green herbage.

Some Strange Sights.

This underground salt city is one of the strangest places in the world, and to inspect it adequately would take weeks. It is a city of winding roads and alleys, with remarkable churches, restaurants and houses all hewn out of salt, the walls of which flash and glitter like diamonds and rubies in the artificial light which illumines the place. The mines are controlled by the Austro-Hungarian government, which looks on the salt so jealously that it might be gold. The whole place is undermined with salt, and there are miles on miles of streets. The mines have been worked since the eleventh century, and have been visited by some of the most distinguished people in Europe. The first impression on reaching one or other of the vast chambers is one almost of terror at the vastness of the saloons, and the weird fancies that are called up by the sombre echoes and the dancing lights that play on the strange surroundings. The ballroom is said to be absolutely the most remarkable chamber of festivities in the world, with its venerable pillars and porticoes, galleries, and stupendous chandeliers, all carved with patient art out of glistening salt. This ball room dates back to the early part of the eighteenth century. At one end of the room is a massive throne of greenish salt, which is occupied by the Emperor Francis Joseph whenever he visits the mines. The ballroom is 220 feet below the earth's surface, and this is the first tier of seven which go to make this underground world of salt.

An Underground Cathedral.

Next in interest to the ballroom comes the cathedral, which is a gigantic building made entirely of salt. It is known as the Church of St. Anthony, and was constructed in the seventeenth century, and was formerly resorted to by thousands of pilgrims, as well as by the miners and their families. At regular intervals today priests descend from surrounding towns above ground and celebrate divine service in the church. The third of July is a great day in this subterranean cathedral, for then mass is celebrated with great pomp and ceremony, the priests descending in gorgeous vestments of cloth of gold, attended by thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the country. It needs no great stretch of the imagination to realize how impressive this service must be, with the swelling notes of the Gregorian chant of the priests echoing through the sacred salt edifice, the voices of the choir high up in the loft, the solemn tones of the organ, and the sight of the diamond and ruby flashes from the walls and columns, salt statues, candelabra, etc. Adjoining the cathedral is the Queen's chapel, which is remarkable for its superb salt altar, its carved chandelier depending from the room, and its quaint representation of Bethlehem chiseled upon the wall.

Tiers of Cities.

That the salt of this underground city is very durable will be realized when it is stated that the great chandeliers, though composed of mere strings of salt crystals, have endured for centuries, without melting or wearing out in any way. To get to the second city of this strange world one has to descend by a long series of staircases hewn in the salt. Here is the Michaelowice chamber—an interior of appalling vastness and mystery. It was completed some time in the eighteenth century as a result of 40 or 50 years of labor. Some idea of the extent of the chamber may be gathered when it is known that it is 120 feet high. In the center of this chamber is a colossal chandelier with 500 lights. At times the miners' band plays in this vast interior, and the effect is very peculiar, as the sound rumbles and roars with reverberating effect against the massive walls. There are other smaller apartments, each named after some distinguished personage, and here and there one comes across pyramids of salt, erected as monuments in 1812 to the emperor and empress of Austria.

Station and Restaurant.

The third tier or city of this underground world contains the railway station and an excellent restaurant. The station is the center of a network of lines from all parts of the mines, and the restaurant is kept open all summer for the benefit of tourists. It is a curious sight to see the cafe tables set out by the side of the railroad track, crowded with diners and beer drinkers. But the cathedral, the ballroom and the station do not exhaust the wonders of this fairy-land. Seven hundred feet below the surface of the ground is a vast salt lake, whose waters are thick and dark. Heavy barges convey visitors through the sticky waters, and it is here that one gets the deepest sense of lonelihess. Indeed, so horrible is the feeling of remoteness from the world, so unusual and unnatural are the surroundings, that the visitor has an instinctive desire to cry out in despair. The boat is guided through the various caverns by ropes and pulleys. Altogether, there are about 16 salt lakes, but only one is navigable owing to the danger arising at this depth from masses of salt dropping from the roof. A revolver shot fired on the lake re-echoed repeatedly, and gradually grew fainter and fainter, until it died away in the distance.—Woman's Home Journal.

Can't Be Said of Opposition.

Republicans of Washington county are in a contest this fall with a clean record, a clean platform and clean candidates. And this much cannot be said of the opposition, even though it is sincere in all its reform pretensions and even though every libel against the Republican party be true.—Washington Reporter.

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

Carl W. Schofield and Mrs. Schofield of Washington, D. C., were guests in Pittsburgh yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Shumaker, 7614 Kelly street. Mr. Schofield, who is an employe of the agricultural department, has immediate oversight of the government's irrigation work on the western plains. He is on his way home from inspecting the progress of operations now going on in Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico.

"I have ridden over 1,000 miles on horseback in the last month," said Mr. Schofield yesterday, "and the Lord only knows how many miles on 'shank's mares.' Over some of the desert which Uncle Sam is going to make blossom like the rose one could travel with comfort only on foot."

Mr. Schofield declared that at no distant day the people of the United States would awaken to the fact that the work of irrigating the western deserts is second in magnitude and beneficial results only to the digging of the Panama canal.

George B. Cox Has a Double.

For about 10 minutes before the 10 o'clock train pulled out of Union station for the east travelers at Union station last night took a lively interest in W. H. Mullin of Salem, O., a manufacturer of architectural iron and steel. It became whispered about that George B. Cox of Cincinnati, Republican leader of Hamilton county, was in Union station, and Mr. Mullin was pointed out by the knowing ones as the man who rolls up big majorities for the Republican ticket in Cincinnati. When Mr. Mullin learned the reason for his being the center of interest he laughed and said he had been mistaken for Cox before.

Much Coal in Philippines.

"The coal deposits in the Philippines are so big that when the development of the coal lands begin in the islands a great industry will be started which will take generations to exhaust," said E. M. Lockhard of Chicago, who is interested in coal mining in this country, last night at Union station. He has recently returned from the Philippines and is on his way east. Mr. Lockhard said the coal industry in the Philippines is in a better condition than at any time since the Spaniards left the islands. The laws passed by congress to preserve the valuable minerals in the islands for the benefit of the natives has restricted the development of the coal deposits, but Mr. Lockhard said the visit of Secretary of War Taft will probably result in the laws being modified so that Americans can engage in mining there. One half of the island of Bosan, which is held as a military reservation, contains a vast area of coal deposits, and this coal can be mined for about one-third the price paid for Japanese and Australian coal. The coal is of good steam raising quality and the shipping facilities are splendid, he said. The coal deposits are owned by Spaniards and the United States government has a $50,000 option on the coal until March, and Mr. Lockhard said it is the belief that the option will be taken up. The machinery needed for the mines will cost about $750,000.

Canadian Teachers Going Home.

The visit of Canadian teachers to Pittsburgh was brought to a close yesterday, and at 2:30 o'clock their special train started from Union station on the return trip to Toronto, Ont. The teachers were given a parting farewell by local teachers, school officials and members of the Canadian society of Pittsburgh. The teachers were escorted through the schools and other public buildings in the city and were also given opportunities to see the many points of interest in Allegheny county during their two-days' visit. The Canadians were all very liberal with complimentary remarks about the wonders of Pittsburgh, and many regretted they could not remain for a longer period.

"Pete's" Career Comes to an End.

"Pete," the friend of employes about Union station and the station yards, is no more. Early yesterday morning he was suddenly transferred to the happy hunting grounds for cats. "Pete" got in the way of a train, after having dodged them for two years, and all of his nine lives went out at one time under the wheels of an iron monster. "Pete" was a cat which had a trick of making friends with travelers about the station. The cat has a history, but it is only known for two years back, when he broke away from his mistress on the station platform and started out to shift for himself. "Pete" arrived in Pittsburgh with his mistress, who was on her way south. In order to keep him from becoming lost in the crowds the girl tied him about with a string attached to his blue ribbon collar. "Pete" seemed to like the station excitement, slipped his collar and was off for parts unknown. After his owner departed he emerged from his hiding place and made the Union station building his hotel.

TOM JOHNSON HAS A FINE MACHINE

Advent of W. H. Boyd, However, Seriously Threatens to Demolish It.

MAYOR ADMITS THE DANGER

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 29.—Speaking of political machines, there is a fine one in operation up here and it is bossed by Mayor Tom L. Johnson. Mr. Johnson pleads guilty to being a leader, but he denies he is a boss. However, very few bosses have the courage to openly admit their power; and then modesty sometimes prevents them from admitting it.

Having talked with the man who dominates the politics of the big city at the southern end of the state, I was anxious to interview the man who carries the vote of Cleveland in his vest pocket. Bossism has come to be such an important issue in this gubernatorial campaign that it is interesting to scrutinize the bosses.

Bossism an Issue.

For years and years George B. Cox has been the leader of the Republican organization in Cincinnati and Tom L. Johnson has held the same power in Cleveland. Hanna had his organization in the state and Foraker had his. Organizations or machines were objects of interest only from the effective work they accomplished and nobody seemed to question the propriety of these influential politicians maintaining their power through their organizations.

But in this campaign a great hue and cry has gone up, and bossism has been made an issue, a live, burning issue. Secretary Taft has described the reign of Cox in Cincinnati as a despotism; here in Cleveland is a feudal castle with Tom L. Johnson in authority and a great army of loyal serfs and vassals ready to do his bidding.

Johnson Machine Threatened.

But the Johnson machine is threatened. Opposed to him for mayor this year the Republicans have named W. H. Boyd, a long, lank, keen, sharp-tongued lawyer, and Mayor Tom admits frankly this Boyd person is the hardest proposition he ever tackled.

Friday night the two mayoralty candidates concluded a series of six joint debates. Ten thousand persons assembled in the Central armory and let the candidates fight it out. These debates have been the most dramatic political incidents in Cleveland's history.

From the same platform Messrs. Johnson and Boyd, dividing the time equally, have argued the local questions that vitally interest Cleveland, have hurled question and answer back and forth and have indulged in keen wit and sarcasm at each other's expense, while their supporters in the audience yelled themselves black in the face.

Conflict of Keen Minds.

Representative T. E. Burton, member of congress for several terms, heard one of these debates and said it was the greatest conflict of keen minds he had ever witnessed. He had never seen anything on the floor of the house of representatives to equal it.

Mayor Johnson is a ready speaker and being specially well informed on municipal subjects he has heretofore been able to easily bowl over any antagonist who came into the arena to oppose him. But he found in Candidate Boyd a hard nut to crack. Mr. Boyd declined to become disconcerted at every pointed question Mayor Tom fired at him. He always had a ready answer and a few hot shot to fire in return.

Boyd was posted. Johnson dared him to point out graft in the local administration. Boyd cited several recent defalcations of city officials. Give and take was the rule at these debates and Boyd gave as good as he took. Indulging himself in a little fun at the expense of the Republican candidate, Mayor Johnson said:

"Why, Mr. Boyd will be the worst whipped candidate for mayor there ever was in Ohio on November 7."

"That may be true," replied Mr. Boyd. "I don't know who was the worst whipped candidate for mayor. But I do know who was the worst whipped candidate for governor."

Johnson Has Worst of It.

It was a cruel blow. Herrick beat Johnson two years ago by 113,000. At the closing debate Friday night it was the general opinion that Mayor Tom had gotten the worst of the fight. Republicans were proud of their candidate and felt that he had carried off the honors.

This may have accounted for the ill humor in which I found Mayor Johnson at his beautiful home on Euclid avenue the following morning. He was nursing what is popularly termed a "grouch." When I asked him for his views on the situation he scowled and said:

"Now, why should I give the Pittsburgh Gazette an interview? What good would it do me? The Gazette is in the same class as the Cleveland Leader and the Cincinnati Enquirer; they deceive their readers by suppressing the truth."

Is Sour on McLean.

"What? The Cincinnati Enquirer?" I said. "It is supporting your candidate, isn't it?"

"Nonsense," exclaimed Mayor Tom. "It is doing nothing of the kind. John R. McLean is controlled by Cox. The Enquirer isn't helping a bit. Now, if I gave you an interview you wouldn't print it. You would garble and change it to suit yourself.

"Do you know," he continued, growing very personal, "that I have the greatest contempt for such papers as The Gazette. They only give one side of the case; they suppress the facts, they—Where in thunder are my coat and hat. I wonder? George, who took my coat? Oh, here it is, hanging just where I put it.

He Is Not Overworked.

"No, I am not overworked or especially busy, but things are sort of upset here at the house and I get worried sometimes. No, sir, if I gave you an interview on politics I know exactly what would happen. I've dealt with you fellows. You've got troubles of your own out in Pennsylvania, I see, and I'm blamed glad of it. Serves you right. I—George, I thought I told you to order out the automobile. I believe the man has gone off without me and I promised to meet that man at city hall in five minutes, too. George! Find out about the machine."

"They say you are a boss," I suggested, just to keep things moving. They moved.

Doesn't Care a Cuss.

"I don't care a cuss what they say," replied Mayor Tom, walking nervously up and down the length of the great hall. "The trouble is they can't make the distinction between a leader and a boss."

"That's what the Republicans claim," I suggested.

"What?"

"That you Democrats fail to draw the distinction between a leader and a boss. Some of them regard as leaders men who are classed as bosses."

"I suppose they call Cox a leader, eh? Suppose they object to calling him a boss. Well, here's the machine. Like to take a little ride?"

Ride in Mayor Tom's Red Devil.

I would. At any rate I wanted to stick to Mayor Tom for he was mighty entertaining if he was rather crusty. He jumped into the big red machine, took the wheel and made a place for me beside him. The chauffeur hopped into the tonneau and we glided down the driveway to the avenue.

"Even if you won't give me an interview, I am certainly grateful for a ride in the famous 'Red Devil,'" I said.

"Yes, this is the French machine," replied the mayor, "the one I paid $3,000 duty on. Print that in your blooming high protection newspaper? Yes, sir, I just paid a fine of $3,000 for the privilege of bringing this machine into this country. Personally I am a free trader, but I didn't try to dodge the tariff. I just stepped up to the captain's office and settled."

His Crustiness Vanishes.

As we skimmed along the smooth avenue the wind from the lake caught us full on the face and I was kept busy wiping away the tears that trickled down my cheeks. Mayor Tom had a couple of tiny rivulets on his, too, but he was too busy to bother with them. When we had gone a few blocks he said:

"This cool air makes me feel better. Now, what do you want me to say for your paper?"

"We would be interested to know what you think of the situation here in Cleveland and in the state," I replied.

"Well, Pattison will be elected; mark that," he said. "Myron Herrick is a good fellow, but he can't win this time. They have the goods on him and I told him so the last time I saw him. He doesn't stand a ghost of a show to carry this county. I will be elected mayor by the largest majority I ever had and Pattison will run ahead of me. I have had to bear the brunt of the fight up here, but I'm going to win.

He Compliments His Rival.

"However, I will say that this man Boyd is the hardest proposition I ever went up against. He's a good one and a hard fighter, I'll admit that. These debates have got the people roused here in Cleveland. They have done a lot of good, but they were not conducted on as high plane as they should have been."

Mayor Tom dropped me in front of the city hall with a hearty handshake and no ill-feeling on either side.

If there had ever been any doubt that Mayor Johnson had a full-fledged political machine in operation here it was dispelled when a book, carefully guarded and triple indexed, was stolen from him. This book contained a record of all applicants for positions under the municipal administration, with the names of those who indorsed the applications.

The mayor explained in his debates with Mr. Boyd that he had compiled this book for his own personal information and to show that many applicants for jobs under a Democratic administration were indorsed by prominent Republicans. To an outsider it looks like this book could serve but one purpose and that a political one. It was a memorandum of all those who had asked favors of the mayor; it would be but natural that he should remind them of the fact when he needed their support.

Modeled on Tammany.

"The Tammany book" is the manner in which the Republicans refer to the famous volume. In fact the Johnson organization has now been dubbed the Tammany of Cleveland. It has been stated that an assistant law director under the present administration spent some time in New York making a careful study of Tammany hall with a view to adopting its plan in the Cleveland organization.

It has been followed in many respects. There are ward leaders and precinct captains who look after the vote and report to the mayor. No one makes the charge that it has copied the vicious features of Tammany hall. Mayor Johnson is an honest man; friend and foe admit that. But the people of Cleveland are beginning to realize that he has no corner on all the honesty in Ohio.

SOME PICTURES OF THE BEAUTIFUL JAPANESE FLOWERS

Mountain of Chrysanthemums.

Bloom of a Choice Variety.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW A SUCCESS

The chrysanthemum show at the conservatory in Schenley park opened yesterday, and at least 8,000 persons saw the display. They were chiefly Pittsburghers, too, for the railroads ran only their usual Sunday excursions, the extra excursions for the flower show not beginning until next Sunday. Heretofore it has been the experience of rural excursionists that the flowers are not at their best on the first day of the show and they have learned to postpone their visit to the second week. It just happened that they would have been well rewarded had they gone yesterday, for the chrysanthemums were in better flower than ever before on a first-day occasion.

The attendance at the Peacock observatory in Highland avenue and at the Frick greenhouses at Penn and Homewood avenues was larger than on last Sunday. It has been the experience of Gardner Jenkinson at Mr. Peacock's place and of Gardener Frazer at Mr. Frick's place, that whenever they open on the same day with Schenley park the attendance is much larger, it seeming that the beginning of the Schenley park show is the signal for flower-lovers to be up and visiting, and that until that signal is given they rather hang back.

The attendance at the big conservatory might have been larger had the day been bright, but the sun did not shine until late in the afternoon. It is known, too, that this year's show will last for four or five weeks and there will be plenty of opportunity to see it. The visitors wandered through the conservatory and saw 10,000 chrysanthemums. In one big wing the flowers, white, yellow and purple, were arranged without reference to their color, the hues being intermixed. This plan had its charms, too, for thereby the contrast with the wing in which the the flowers of each color were massed together seemed so much the greater. New chrysanthemums are developed every year, the most valuable of the new varieties being the Mrs. William Duckham, although many of the old kinds are still unsurpassed.

There are other flowers in the Schenley conservatory besides the chrysanthemum. There are some fine orchids, some very pretty cosmos flowers, known as Mexican daisies, and specimens of other flowers which would bloom despite the efforts of the conservatory men to hold them back.

Visitors to Highland park were few, the usual experience of that pleasure ground on flower show days.

BIG STEEL CONTRACT COMES FROM CUBA

Lackawanna Company Will Furnish Rails for Havana Electric Line.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The Lackawanna Steel company has been awarded the record-breaking contract for steel rails which are to be utilized in the construction of the Havana Central Railway company's extensive electric traction system in Cuba.

The contract calls for the shipment of nearly 18,000 tons of rails to be laid on almost 250 miles of track. This is by far the most important contract ever let in this country for trolley rails to be shipped outside the United States, though there have been a number of larger orders placed in the states for foreign steam roads, notably for the Russian, Australian and Argentina lines.

This is the second big export contract which the Lackawanna people have taken in competition with the United States Steel Corporation during the recently inaugurated campaign to capture foreign trade. The other contract was for 6,000 tons of rails for the Victorian State Railways, Australia.

The greatest secrecy is being pursued by the company regarding these contracts. At the local offices all information on the subject of foreign contracts is vigorously denied.

The Cuban contract was allotted through the New York offices of the Havana Central Railway company. This concern is composed of interests identical with those of the Havana Electric Railway company. George F. Greenwood, who was at one time prominently identified with Pittsburgh traction lines, is general manager of both concerns.

The Victorian contract was awarded through R. W. Cameron & Company of this city, which firm is one of the prime factors in the Australian market.

Explosion Sets Fire to House.

A can of kerosene exploded in the kitchen of Mrs. John Niehaus, Garden street, Sharpsburg, yesterday morning at 2:30 o'clock, awakening the sleeping family, who made their escape, although the house was gutted.

DECLARES MONARCHY BETTER FOR NORWAY

Foreign Minister Says Republican Institutions Would Require Generations of Work.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 29.—The storthing sat until a late hour last night discussing a constitution. M. Honow, the radical leader, on behalf of the Republicans, declared that the government proposal for a plebiscite would diminish the respect held for the storthing's governmental responsibility.

Foreign Minister Ioeveland said a Republican constitution would be intrinsically as valuable as a monarchical constitution, but he pointed out that Norway, being a well established constitutional monarchy, generations of labor would be necessary to work out republican institutions. A continuation as a monarchy, he added, would be the logical result of the policy of June 7 (when the storthing dissolved the union between Sweden and Norway) and that otherwise Norway's international position would be hazardous.

Minister of Commerce Arctander said the government would resign if this policy was defeated. Among those selected for ministerial posts abroad is H. C. Hauge, former secretary of legation for Norway and Sweden at Washington. The foreign office is pushing its work of providing a consular service.

BOROUGH ENTERTAINS.

Justices Are Ill and Sharpsburg Dines Score of Prisoners.

Owing to the illness of both Justices R. A. Saint and F. W. Schrandt, Sharpsburg entertained a score or more prisoners all day yesterday who were arrested Saturday night. Unless some of the judiciary regain health sufficiently to hear cases today, additional prisoners will have to be placed in storage.

Among those who dined at the expense of the borough yesterday were Charles McCoy, an ex-pugilist who is charged with practicing the manly art upon his wife; "Good Time Johnny," a colored dice manipulator, and 11 colleagues, and the guests at a Hungarian catch-as-catch-can engagement in which eight participated.

Street Car Man Falls from Car.

George Campbell, an employe of the Pittsburgh Railways company on the Birmingham line, fell off a car at South Thirtieth and Carson streets early yesterday morning, injuring himself internally. He was taken to the office of a physician, where his injuries were attended to and he was later removed to his home.

Marron to Speak at Lyceum.

Invitations have been issued for the second of the Catholic Lyceum's series of monthly complimentary entertainments to be held next Friday evening in Lyceum hall, 119 Washington street, at 8:15. An address by John Marron is only one of the many good things in the elaborate program. This is the second season for these entertainments and many well known speakers will be heard.

Carpenters Issue Call.

DUBOIS, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—The carpenters have issued a call for all members of their union in Clearfield, Jefferson and Elk counties to be represented at the convention to be held here November 2 to arrange hours and formulate a wage scale for 1906.

SAY CITY LOST $6,330,000 ON ITS FILTRATION CONTRACTS

Board of Investigators Makes Its Report to Mayor Weaver.

MATERIAL IS FAULTY

Methods Employed in Work Are Held Responsible for 1,200 Typhoid Deaths.

BOULEVARDS TOO COSTLY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—The report of the board of investigating commissioners, appointed last July by Mayor Weaver to examine the filtration system of the city and the northeast and southern boulevards now under construction was made public today. It is signed by Maj. Cassius E. Gillette of the United States engineer corps, who investigated the Savannah harbor frauds, and by John Ronald MacLennon of Washington, D. C.

The report shows that up to date the city has lost through excessive costs, collusive bids, illegal advertising and in other ways $6,330,000. The contractors who received most of the more than $18,000,000 that have been expended on improvements are D. J. McNichol & Co., James A. Ryan, John W. Kelley and Vare Bros. The members of the McNichol firm are Israel W. Durham, leader of the local Republican organization; State Senator J. P. McNichol, also a city leader, and the latter's brother, Daniel. The Vare firm is made up of State Senator George A. Vare and Edwin H. Vare. Their brother, William Vare, is recorder of deeds, an elective office.

The officials held responsible by the report for some of the conditions in connection with the filtration system are William C. Haddock, who was director of public works under Mayor Weaver until last May, when the mayor dismissed him, and John W. Hill, former chief of the bureau of filtration, who is awaiting trial on charges of fraud and falsification of records in connection with the construction of the filtration system. The report says:

City Is Out $6,330,000.

"Omitting from the construction all small contracts—say under $20,000—we find that for the filtration work and the two boulevards as constructed up to date, the city has paid or pledged $18,761,541. First-class work under the specifications should not have cost over $12,430,000, which includes an allowance of 20 per cent, or $2,071,905 for legitimate contractors' profits. The difference is $6,330,000. In other words $18,760,000 in round numbers has been paid for work costing the contractors $10,-256,000.

"Of the $6,330,000 excessive cost there has gone to the contractors who worked under the name of D. J. McNichol, $5,085,-152; similarly to Ryan & Kelley, $542,809, and to Vare Bros. $89,128. Of the $18,761,-541 there remains unpaid about $568,000 to McNichol and $75,000 to Ryan & Kelley.

"Some of these contracts are incomplete; the estimated cost of completion of the existing filtration contracts, at contract prices, is about $1,685,000. A fair price, allowing 20 per cent profit, would be $1,218,000. The difference the city will lose if those contracts are completed.

Loss on Boulevard.

"The price paid for the three-quarters of a mile of Northeast boulevard, already constructed, is $552,245, on which there was a loss to the city of $272,217. There are 9½ miles more of it laid out on the maps. If completed at contract prices, the additional cost to the city will be about $6,-168,000, and the additional loss at least $3,250,000. On the Southern boulevard, amount paid to date is $286,389, on which the loss on the 1½ miles built has been $89,128. To complete at contract prices would cost $350,516, and the additional loss be 385,555. In other words the total cost of both boulevards as planned at contract prices would have been $7,626,060, and the total loss to the city $2,750,000.

"Much of the work done by Ryan & Kelley and D. J. McNichol is not first-class. The parts which show prominently to the public are fairly well done; the parts that can be examined with a little trouble are distinctly second-class and not up to the specifications. We, of course, do not know the condition of such portions as cannot be seen without tearing up the work; but wherever we have dug into it we find it second class or worse. The Southern boulevard work, so far as can be seen, is good work. As yet only the rough work of a filling has been done."

Say Material Is Faulty.

The report says the crushed rock used in surfacing the Northeast boulevard is excellent material, but the foundation rock was found to be of a very poor quality. The report also says the investigators found fault with much of the material that entered into the construction of filter beds and also with the workmanship.

One of the means by which excessive profits were made possible, the report says, was by not permitting fair competition. The advertising was wholly inadequate, scarcely more than a pretense. Continuing the report says:

"A careful analysis of all filtration advertising indicates that everything possible was done to avoid any real publicity, without letting the fact appear too prominently in the records. The bureau's preliminary estimates, instead of being freely furnished to bidders, were rigorously guarded secrets, so far as the general bidders were concerned, except that they were furnished in the specifications for filtering materials where they were very little needed. The specifications in many particulars were unfair to bidders and gave excessive and unnecessary power to the city officials. In short, the specifications were so drawn that the engineer in charge could harass an unwelcome contractor to an almost unlimited extent without the contractor being able to prevent it or secure legal redress."

The report goes into detail to show how contracts were let to favored bidders and how other methods were used to help favored contractors. A frequently used method of guiding contracts into the desired hands, the report says, was to readvertise them whenever others were the lowest bidders. In some cases contracts were let to the firm which promised to do the work in the shortest time and not to the lowest bidder.

McNichol Firm Favored.

The McNichol bids always proposed shockingly short periods for the completion of contracts, and in one case notice to begin work was given to McNichol four months after he started the operation, so that the firm would have four months in which to complete the contract. In many instances the proposed time was exceeded by from 10 to 200 per cent. In the aggregate, the report says, McNichol could have been assessed for liquidated damages for overtime about $652,000. He was actually assessed $9,250.

In connection with favored contractors, the report says:

"We have received testimony from many contractors that the conditions described kept them from bidding. We have also received statements that city officials directly discouraged bidders from submitting bids. This field has not been fully explored."

The report says the filtration system ought to have been completed on January 1, 1904; that since June 6, 1904, when the West Philadelphia district began receiving filtered water, there have been only 10 deaths from typhoid fever out of a population of 41,000. At the same proportionate rate the deaths from typhoid fever in the whole city since January 1, 1904, when filtered water ought to have been completed, should have been 67 or less, whereas, 1,257 have died from that disease. Since January 1, 1904, the total number of cases of typhoid, including deaths, was 11,978. The difference between 67 and 1,257, the report says, represents the loss of life due to the methods that have been employed in conducting the filtration work.

James J. Ryan, a member of the firm of Ryan & Kelley, said tonight that the statements made in the report that his firm made excessive profits are absurd.

"We don't care whether Maj. Gillette said the work we did is second-class or fourth-class; we say it was done according to plans and specifications. We defy Mayor Weaver and any or all experts to prove the work on any of our contracts was done otherwise than required by the contracts."

Mr. Ryan denied his firm was favored as against other contractors, and also denied that his firm and the McNichol firm were in collusion in bidding for work.

Calls Report Absurd.

Senator James P. McNichol tonight said:

"The statement that profits aggregating over $6,000,000 have been made on the filtration plants is absurd. The report concedes 20 per cent is a legitimate profit. As a matter of fact, the profits have not approached that percentage. The work was in many respects experimental and many losses occurred in unexpected places, such losses amounting on some of the contracts to 35 per cent of the total amount of the contract.

"Any possible profit on the whole work would be very far below the usual contractor's profit on work of this description, and, in fact, would hardly be considered a fair profit on any ordinary business transaction. This applies to that portion of the work completed and paid for.

"I repudiate as an absolute falsehood the suggestion there was collusion with Ryan & Kelley, or any other contractor or contractors, or any official or officials. All these contracts have been strictly complied with, according to the specifications, and the city of Philadelphia is amply secure in that compliance by bonds of reputable trust companies aggregating over $3,000,000 to cover all obligations under these contracts."

Republicans Leaders Meet.

Republican leaders regard the report of Major C. E. Gillette as a "last card" campaign document. Emphasis is laid upon the fact Major Gillette did not as he announced he would at the outset, call upon any of the contractors for information and that such data was volunteered. It is also claimed that his statements as to a conspiracy to defraud by eliminating competition and as to profits made rest upon nothing but the unsupported assertion of the mayor's experts. This, it is claimed, will be promptly demonstrated by a full and complete report to be made by the contractors.

A conference of Republican leaders and others which did not end until long after midnight was held at the Hotel Walton tonight. Among those present were United States Senator Penrose, Israel W. Durham, State Senator McNichol, John W. Hill, former chief of the bureau of filtration and the latter's son; Wm. C. Haddock, who was director of public works under Mayor Ashbridge, and an attorney. The nature of the conference was not disclosed by any of the participants but it is presumed that one of the subjects discussed was the filtration report made public tonight.

Faint Spells
are very often attributed to biliousness, and the stomach is treated to cathartics. This is wrong.
Faint spells may be accompanied by biliousness, but you will also notice shortness of breath, asthmatic breathing, oppressed feeling in chest, weak or hungry spells, which are all early symptoms of heart weakness.
Don't make the mistake of treating the stomach when the heart is the source of the trouble.
Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure will strengthen the nerves and muscles of the heart, and heart troubles will disappear.

PITTSBURGHS ARE UP IN THE LIST

Official Averages Show That Ritchey Is the Best Second Baseman.

OUTFIELDERS ARE AWAY UP

President Pulliam yesterday issued the official fielding averages of the National league. The Pirates show up excellently in every position. Ritchey tops all the second basemen and Ganley, Leach and Clymer all the outfielders. Hummel, Brooklyn's new man, leads in second base position, but Ritchey played in nearly four times as many games as he did. Leach is well up among the third basemen, which are headed by Jimmy Casey.

The star shortstops are bunched on top, headed by Old Man Corcoran, who is followed by Dahlen, Tinker and Wagner.

All the Pittsburgh outfielders stand well up in the averages. Beaumont is the lowest man among them and he stands 12th with .972.

The boss first baseman is big Dan McGann of the New York champions, with Chance one point behind. Brownfield is third in the list. The averages follow:

METZGER WILL GO TO THE CHICAGO MEETING

Executive Committee to Hold Important Session—Will Discuss Tournament.

The Pittsburgh Bowling association held a meeting last night at the Federal alleys in Allegheny. The meeting was called to order by President George Metzgar. Secretary Ward Brown was absent and his chair was filled temporarily by J. Dougherty. A report by the treasurer, Ben Vey, of the financial standing of the association, was to the effect that there was at the present time $17.10 left in the treasury from last year. There are now 40 clubs represented in the association, and the following clubs were represented: Unity, George Silber; Braddock, M. J. Dougherty; Colonial, J. S. Stewart; Braddock, William Westlake; Federal, Peter Hornick; Royals, H. W. Wacker; Brunswick, E. L. Wilson; Unger, Mr. Meyers; North Side, Mr. Hepler; South Pittsburgh league, Andy Yochum.

After all old business was taken up and disposed of, the election of officers for the ensuing year was in order and the following were nominated and elected unanimously: President, George Metzgar; secretary, Austin Smith; treasurer, Ben Vey. The following members were elected on the executive committee: Andy Yochum, M. J. Dougherty, E. L. Wilson and Peter Hornick.

The board of directors is composed of the captains of every team, or a representative appointed by the captain. It was agreed that the appointment of delegates to the A. B. C. association should be postponed until a later date.

President Metzger, who is a member of the national executive committee, was instructed to attend the meeting of that body at Chicago next Wednesday. He was voted $50 out of the treasury in spite of the fact that he said he was satisfied with railroad expenses only.

The meeting of the executive committee of the American Bowling congress will be an important one. It will be held at the Saratoga hotel, and representatives from a dozen cities will be in attendance. Any action by the committee will depend upon the conditions under which the national tournament at Louisville will be held next March. Several important reforms in the methods of conducting the tournament will probably be proposed under the contract which will be offered the Louisville men for signature at the meeting. Past experience at tournaments has shown that it is a mistake to finish the team events before putting on the doubles or singles, thereby forcing the bowlers to stay over in a city several days longer than necessary. The trouble will be remedied this year, if the proposed contract with the Louisville men goes through, and bowlers shooting their five-men event one day will roll their doubles and singles the day following.

Another proposed reform will not necessitate bowlers rolling in the small hours of the morning, the present schedule calling for the opening squads to go on the alleys at 11 a. m., while no five-men team will be started after 9:30 p. m., no doubles after 11 o'clock and no individual squad after 11:30 o'clock at night. The method of withdrawing an entire squad as a body so as to allow the next squad to begin on time, will also probably be adopted.

A rule is also proposed to allow every team or individual to take in a scorer, who will check up with the tournament association's scorer, and insure correctness. Opening games will start Saturday, March 17, two squads being put on after 7:30, five full team squads following on Sunday.

Informal talk at last Sunday's Louisville meeting, at which nothing was accomplished on account of the failure to secure a quorum, developed the fact that H. F. Smithers, secretary of the Louisville Bowling Tournament association, will be appointed assistant secretary to Sam Karpf. He will handle all money received in entrance fees, and will deposit it to the credit of the A. B. C., it being necessary for three men to sign checks to withdraw any of this fund—President J. H. Haager, Treasurer Frank L. Pasdeloup and Secretary Sam Karpf.

Both Smithers and Pasdeloup will be under bonds, thereby guaranteeing the security of the fund to those who do not happen to know them. The control of the prize fund being vested in the hand of the national officers, all chance of the prize list being altered at a late hour will be obviated.

The armory, in which the tournament is to be held, is nearly completed, while other details such as securing a low railroad rate and hotel accommodations, are well under way. President R. W. Brown and Secretary H. F. Smithers will be the representatives of the L. B. T. A. at the meeting here to sign the contract, while a working majority of the A. B. C.'s executive committee is certain to be in attendance.

The fourth week of the Liberty Valley league is now past and the race is very close. High team score for past week was 906, made by Schenley. High individual score was 224, made by Fiser, Dapen. The following 200 scores were made during the week: Smith, 218, F. Besselman 206, Gapen 224, Loos 211, 201, Hewitt 215, and Seibel 206. The game scheduled for today between Noname and Shadyside has been postponed. The schedule for the week is as follows: Wednesday, Kenwood vs. Meadow; Thursday, Highland vs. Central; Friday, Hillside vs. Schenley. The captains of all the teams are signing new men and the games from now on will be even more hotly contested than those in the past. High individual score of the season is 243, made by Whipple and F. Besselman. The latter also holds high individual average with 204 2-3. High team score, Shadyside, 976.

DICK MUELLER TO PLAY AGAINST KISKI TEAM

Shadyside Captain Fit Again to Resume His Position at Left End—East Enders Pleased.

SOME SATURDAY AFTERMATH

Joyed because of the decisive victory over the champion East High school team of Cleveland Saturday, the Shadyside academy players were yesterday given another pleasing surprise when it was announced that Richard Mueller, the captain of the team, would resume practice this week and play in the championship game against Kiski next Tuesday at Friendship park.

Mueller, who is a clever end, and one of the mainstays of the team for the past three years, has been unable to participate in football because of an injury received while playing hockey last winter. He will take his position at left end again and his presence in the lineup will make Shadyside's chances for winning at least 20 per cent better.

Some time ago the Kiski adherents were counting on beating Shadyside by at least 40 points, but before Saturday's game 10 points were shaved off the total. Now, since Saturday's victory, Shadyside will go on the field next Tuesday on even terms. Those who will place a waker will want even money and there are quite a few schoolboys who are not one whit afraid to risk their money on their choice. Kiski will come to Pittsburgh with its usual crowd of shouters. Kiski plays Indiana Normal today at Indiana and will then devote the time intervening between today and next Tuesday to practice, while Shadyside will play no games.

The Cleveland East High will play the North Division school of Chicago, the Western interscholastic champions, next Saturday at Chicago.

It was Cooney that Columbia knew she had to stop Saturday, and for a time the obstacles put in his way brought the Princetonians down for but trifling advances. Little by little he seemed to grow in might and appeared to be fresher as the game waned toward its close. When Cooney was not carrying the ball he was making holes, and all told he was the bright light of the Princeton attack.

Von Saltza was to Columbia almost what Cooney was to the Tigers. He was playing in a position behind the line as fullback and when he hurled his enormous weight against the Princeton line it buckled and broke. Carter and John Fisher were good, too, and accounted for gains almost always. Instead of booting the ball directly to the Princeton backs, he kicked it time and again on an angle so that they had to make a diagonal to get to the ball. With W. Tisher coming down under each loft with speed and precision, the pair worked together in as fine an exhibition as could be found.

The Yale men Saturday leaped into their attack with a bang and a crash and shoved and dragged the runner along for numerous extra yards. The tackles were used a good deal in the attack, Bigelow more than Forbes. All of the Yale backs got away fast and hard. Veeder and Filsh excelling. Their forwards opened gaping holes, but were better at making holes than they were at preventing holes being made through themselves.

On her three-yard line Yale made one of the stands for which she is famous, got up on her toes and hurled the cadets back. Yale took the ball on downs, and after that her goal was not in danger. Her defense was adequate after that, but that one alarming siege disclosed weakness, and it may be said that on the whole Yale's offense was better than her defense.

The Indians started off with straight football against Pennsylvania and did not use anything new until the first half was well under way. Then there was a change in the back field and the entire stands seemed to know that something new was coming off. The four backs grouped together and then made a quick, but slight, shift to one side. Quarterback Mt. Pleasant made a feint as though to receive the ball and it was passed to one of the other backs. The quartet of backs stood almost four yards back of the line of scrimmage and when the ball was passed to one of the halfbacks the entire back field was under way with the speed of the wind. The first full time play was used to gained six yards. Then the Red Men returned to their straight football tactics and left their tricks until they were again needed. It was not long, however, before Woodruff's genius again began to assert itself, and this play was used as often as the others before the half was over.

After the showing of the W. U. P. team against Dickinson Saturday, every effort will be put forth from this time on in preparation for the series of hard games which fill out the remainder of the local's schedule at the rate of two a week. The coach intends to spend much time in the coming week in developing the strength of the line, as it was in this department that the team showed the greatest weakness in the game last Saturday. Mosse holds the center of the line responsible for the fumble which resulted in Dickinson's only touchdown. All arrangements in regard to the game with Mt. Union are being rapidly completed. If reports from Alliance be true, Mt. Union is making extensive preparations for the game on Wednesday. Mt. Union will likely be heavily padded for the contest with the local eleven, inasmuch as many of the men who will appear in Pittsburgh have not been seen in the westerner's lineup before this game. The choice of officials will rest largely with the local management. The Mt. Union squad is expected to arrive in the city some time tomorrow.

In view of the near approach of the Harvard-Pennsylvania game, which is to be played November 11 in Philadelphia, the following opinion of Capt. Bass of Brown, which is that Harvard should defeat Penn, will be of interest.

"I don't think Penn is in it with Harvard," said Bass. "Harvard's line is heavier and her backs for all I can see are faster. Her ends are her weakest place, especially left end, but they are no weaker than Pennsylvania's. Harvard was much stronger than we had expected, judging from the newspapers. She has a lot of mighty good players and I don't see how any team in the country can stop her when she gets them perfected.

"Her line was a big surprise to me. I knew it was heavy, but I had no idea it was so fast. Altogether I can't see how Penn can win."

The Princeton Freshmen defeated the New York Military Academy by 4 to 0. In the second half, Moffatt made the only score of the game by a drop kick from the 35-yard line. Cassasa played well for the visitors, while Scott and Moffatt excelled for Princeton.

Dave Berry, the alleged prize fighter who was discovered on the Northwestern eleven, is supposed to write a game. This is the way the Chicago Record-Herald says he would write the Chicago-Northwestern contest:

"The boys are now entering the arena and are certainly a fine looking lot of fellows. It is the regret of my life not to be there, but I suffered a severe injury to my amateur standing a few days ago which keeps me out of it.

"They're taking their corners now; it's going to be a great battle. Ah, there's my friend Hugo Bezdek. Hugo isn't much on science, but he's the hardest hitter—line hitter, I mean—in the whole bunch. I think he'll be on his feet when they call time.

"Now the referee is giving his instructions. He won't stand for any clinching—holding, I should say—in this kind of a game. If you clinch he moves you toward your own corner and nobody likes to back up.

"Well, there goes the gong—excuse me, the whistle. See 'em go to each other. It's going to be a sizzler, for fair. I guess everybody on this side of the ropes—I mean fence—isn't excited. Get onto Eckersall, see him go. Say, he has the finest footwork—that is to say, he is the best dodger in the business.

"They're giving each other the shoulder now. That's all right in this game, you know. In some respects the rules are a little different.

"There goes a mean right just a little side in the solar plexus—the stomach, you know. He'll come up all right before the go—whistle, I mean. There's nothing brutal about it. Battling Nelson is away off when he says there is. He never played the game, while I have, and they don't go for the face, the way they do in the ring.

"Well, the first round—half, I should say—is over. The gladiators get 10 minutes' rest here, instead of a minute. I look for some fierce mixing in the next round. If you don't mind I won't report the rest of the bout—game, I mean. I want to join Harry Gilmore and the other members of my frat over yonder."

Good Boxing Bouts Tonight.

Tonight at Charleroi the 10-round battle between Billy Ryan and Art Simms will take place before the Charleroi club. In the preliminary Jack Bruce and Dan Reardon will meet. Both bouts are sure to be interesting.

CHARLIE STARR TO VISIT CUBA

Local Player Will Accompany Team That Will Perform on That Island This Winter.

GOSSIP OF THE SWATTERS

Charlie Starr, the local boy who played with Youngstown and the St. Louis American league club last season, will sail for Cuba Saturday from New York with a team composed of players who will spend several weeks on that island this winter. The club is being managed by Frank Leonard of Lynn, Mass., and Bill Clancey is captain.

The team will play the leading clubs in Cuba, and a trip to Mexico is talked of.

About the Players.

"Doggie" Ortlieb has given up his intention of going to Seattle and has signed his Akron contract for 1906.

Akron will have to select a manager during the winter months. East likes to play second base, but has no desire for the managerial reins.

New Castle has a young pitcher by the name of Roney who is said to be the goods. He beat Niles in a game with New Castle at the close of the season.

Third Baseman Nagle of the Springfield (Mass.) team, who finished the season with Niles, is wintering in that city.

Bobby Wood, under reserve to Buffalo, is wintering on his farm at Church Hill, a suburb of Youngstown. Wood was with Niles for a time this summer.

Curley Blount, the fast right fielder of the Youngstown team, who is due for faster company, is a draughtsman during the winter months.

Julius Kustus, the left fielder of the Zanesville team, is one of the few Hebrews who have made a success in baseball.

If Pitcher Curt Elston can only learn to play the outfield, he can quit pitching any old day on account of his hitting ability.

Jimmy Barton, the shortstop of the Youngstown team, is studying medicine at the University of Cincinnati.

Players Reserved.

Secretary Farrell has just issued his list of players reserved by the various leagues and the Ohio and Pennsylvania leagues contain a number of interesting features.

Akron reserved only one man, Jimmy Linrie, so as to keep him from being claimed by Buffalo. All the other members of the team have signed up for next season with but a few exceptions.

Homestead continues to keep Alex Pearson, now with the Altoona, on its list, while Lancaster claims George Upp, who jumped that team for Johnstown in the Tri-State. The reserve list follows. Youngstown is not included, as Hogan released all his players:

Akron—James Linrie.

Braddock—M. M. Edmundson, Harry N. Keller, Karl A. Porter, Walter Crum, Harry Cushman, Samuel Smith, Denman Castel, Nelson Sandherr, Murphy Bailey, P. A. Sweeney, Frank Brisbane, Frank Burk, Armor T. Unrue, J. Kennedy.

Newark—Irvin Waiten, Daniel Davis, James Doyle, William J. Snyder, Albert Schwettzer, Nelson Mason, Buck Moore.

Homestead—Leo A. Fohl, Archie Osborn, Frank Eastley, Ross Raley, James McClarren, William B. Kenney, Al Reichart, Oliver Sellers, George E. Mathey, W. McKechnie, Alex P. Pearson.

Zanesville—Bert Blue, James Lucas, Charles Elston, Al Wilmont, Thomas Huling, Ferd Drumm, Ed Gilligan, John Flood, Julius Kustus, William J. Quinn, George Volk.

Lancaster—Harry Compton, Ray King, L. Johns, Harry Kunkle, Scott Winters, Frank Gygle, Frank Lock, Frank Reynolds, Harley Humphreys, C. W. Abbott, F. E. Kellar, Nelliger, George Upp, Harold Johns, Robert Ferrell.

TO PROBE YALE ATHLETICS.

Committee to Investigate Alleged Abuses in Conduct of Sport.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—It was stated here last night that, in response to a letter written by a prominent member of the faculty to President Hadley, the Yale university council has decided to investigate alleged athletic abuses in the university, and has placed the entire matter in the hands of a committee consisting of Prof. Theodore S. Woolsey of the law school, Prof. Louis V. Pierson of the scientific school, and Prof. Charlton M. Lewis of the academy department.

It is understood that the committee will investigate the predominance of athletics in Yale undergraduate life, the training table system, the relation of athletics to scholarship, the charges of financial extravagance in connection with athletics and the handling of the surplus from year to year, which has been left out of the reports, it is asserted. This surplus at the present time is thought to reach $60,000.

PAPERS RETURNED BY CONSIDERATE THIEF

He Sends Back by Mail Valuable Documents He Could Not Use, but Retains Money.

A considerate thief, finding that he had no use for valuable papers which he had stolen from Mrs. Alice Stein, 5227 Second avenue, returned the papers to her by mail, keeping the money, amounting to $32, which he purloined with the papers. The papers are valued at $2,000 by Mrs. Stein, and she was greatly pleased to get them back. She now hopes to get the thief.

Several weeks ago a man called at Mrs. Stein's residence, said he had noticed the house was for sale and asked to be shown through it. Mrs. Stein readily granted the request and the stranger made a careful inspection. When the dining room was reached he asked for a glass of water. Mrs. Stein went to the kitchen to get the drink of water for the prospective buyer of the house, leaving him alone in the dining room.

After satisfying his thirst he left, saying he was pleased with the house and would call again and would bring his wife to inspect the property. Soon afterward Mrs. Stein had occasion to go to her purse, lying on the sideboard in the dining room, and found that $42 in greenbacks, $10 in coin and the papers were missing. She supposed the stolen articles would never be recovered, but was astonished a few days later to receive the papers intact by mail.

Mrs. Stein heard of the arrest of George McKee on the South Side last week and of the methods employed by him, which are alleged to have been similar to those of the man who visited her house. She went to the No. 7 police station but McKee had been removed to the county jail, where she will call today and attempt to identify him as the man who robbed her.

EAST END LYCEUM IS BEATEN AT TOLEDO, 17 TO 0

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—In the hardest fought game of the season and one abounding in magnificent plays, Toledo defeated the East End Lyceum team of Pittsburgh this afternoon, 17 to 0. The teams were apparently evenly matched, but the superb condition of the Toledo team had a telling effect and it was largely responsible for the victory, although the almost impregnability of the Toledo center and the wonderful defensive work of its star center and guards materially affected the result. Teach, Scanlon and Kelley were the Pittsburgh stars. At the beginning of the second half it looked as though Pittsburgh would score, Kelley started off with a magnificent 40-yard run and followed with four more, carrying the ball to Toledo's 30-yard line. But here the home team took a brace, and from that time her goal was never in danger. Lineup:

Pittsburgh.		Toledo.
Scanlon (Gamble)	R.E.	Fassett
Kelley	R.T.	Marvel
M. Burke (Delp)	R.G.	Krause
Marshall	C.	Jankowski
Huff	L.G.	Seuk
Homestead	L.T.	Shepler
Hagar (Tesch)	L.E.	Hadding
Hockenstein	Q.B.	E. Tattersall
Kelley	R.H.	Kruse
Campbell (Scanlon, capt.)	L.H.	Wagner
Elson	F.B.	J. Tattersall (capt.)

Touchdowns—J. Tattersall 2. Wagner. Goals—Kruse 2. Umpire and referee, alternating—Chase and Wilson. Head linesman—Farley. Time of halves—25 minutes each.

PIEKARSKI GOES TO PENN; WALLACE TO COACH W. & J.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—Coach Frank A. Piekarski of the Washington and Jefferson football team, immediately after the game in Pittsburgh yesterday with Georgetown, left for Philadelphia, where he will assist the other coaches in preparing the University of Pennsylvania eleven for the game with Harvard next Saturday. The Washington and Jefferson eleven will miss his services, but his place will be taken by "Bloody" Wallace, now on the U. of P. coaching staff, and "Bilder" Aiken, a former Wash.-Jeff. player, who has been assisting in the coaching all season.

Coach Piekarski left for the east only after repeated requests for his presence had been made by Head Coach Carl Williams of the Penn corps. Piekarski at first refused to return to his alma mater and leave the local team, but was finally told by Carl Williams that if he would agree to go east by one of the Penn coaches he would name would be sent to Washington to take his place. Piekarski chose Wallace, who is expected here in the morning.

The greatest jubilation prevails here over the showing made by the Wash.-Jeff. team against Georgetown yesterday. While it was generally expected that the locals would win, no one imagined that the score would be nearly so large as it was. The team returned last night in fairly good shape, but few cripples being in evidence. Coach Piekarski stated before he left for the east that he was fairly well satisfied with the showing made, but hoped to make considerable improvement. Ohio Medical university is counted upon to give the Wash.-Jeff. team a hard game next Saturday. Capt. Sutter's injured ankle is improving somewhat.

Hart May Fight O'Brien.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Oct. 29.—Marvin Hart came to town this morning to hear the result of the Kauffman-O'Brien fight and to see his physician about a cold which is troubling him.

"I am not surprised at the result of the fight," said Hart. "Kaufman is not much and O'Brien should have put him out sooner, but I guess he could not hit hard enough. He hasn't much stesm. I will be glad to meet O'Brien if any understanding with the Colma club that I am to meet the winner of this fight for a $15,000 purse. I expect to hear something definite from San Francisco in a few days. It may be fixed so we can fight in December. This would suit me.

"It is laughable to me how Kaufman was made such a favorite. I have boxed with the blacksmith. He made me agree not to hit him hard. We mixed up three or four rounds, and when I threw my weight on him he quit. He knows little about the game."

AMONG THE BOXERS.

A good offer was received yesterday by Jimmy Mason for Larry Temple and Young Ziringer to meet two men at a show to be given at Bellaire, O. Temple is to fight Jack Graham of Indianapolis and Ziringer is to meet young Bronson, also of Indianapolis. The offer was accepted.

Joe Alton, who is one of the best boxers here at 122 pounds, is getting ready to meet anyone here at that weight and anyone that wants to meet him will be accepted without any hesitation.

Paul Moore has been working at his trade, bridge building, all summer, and will now get in shape to meet any one at 133 to 135 pounds in the city.

Many Operators Are Waiting Until the Winter Is Over

The week of developments in the lower southwest fields was uneventful. Nothing transpired in either the old or new developments to arouse any interest. The revival of drilling operations, as a result of the advance in the market, has not materialized to any great extent. Many of the operators holding undeveloped territory that has room for additional wells good for small pumpers say the winter is too near to start new work. There is another reason given for waiting for the return of spring before starting new work. The enormous demand for high grade crude makes it inprobable that the market can recede, with the chances in favor of a still greater advance.

In a few districts where it takes but a few weeks to complete a well, new work is under way and starting. The signs of renewed activity are confined to no particular district. The work is of a desultory nature and is very generally distributed over the producing areas of shallow sand territory. Much of the work consists of drilling additional wells in districts where there is room for another location.

During the week but one well was drilled in that had an initial production of 100 barrels. Nothing but light pumpers, dusters and gassers were the general result of development work. The one exception is owned by Bartlett & Co., and is on Mods run, Marion county. While the well is above the average in production, it is not important as to location. That section has been operated for a number of years and has long since lost interest.

Looking for production in some of the lower sands by drilling down old wells is a feature in the deep sand territory. A very large percentage of the work in Wetzel, Marion and Monongalia counties consists of sending old wells, no longer profitable producers, to the lower formations. In some instances the result is satisfactory. However, the week just closed recorded a number of dusters in the deep sand.

Shooting the old wells is the last resort to make them produce a little more, and is now in practice very generally in all of the lower southwest fields. A temporary increase in production usually follows, but there are many instances where they fail to respond to that kind of treatment. At this time there is no thought of abandoning a new well without first giving it a shot, even though it shows but a very little oil when drilled through the sand. So reduced in size are the new wells in some districts that they are classed as producers if they should not be good for more than a half-barrel a day. In former years such wells would have been abandoned as worthless. All of which goes to show to what desperate straits operators are reduced for new production.

Some of the shallow sand districts that were fairly active during the year now show a decline in new work. This is true in particular of the Yellow Creek district in Calhoun county and the Big Injun district at Wick, Tyler county. In an effort to advance the producing limits within the past two weeks dusters have been encountered in both fields. The new wells completed inside of both districts show a much smaller average in new production.

During the week the South Penn Oil Company completed a test on the Cain farm, between the old Yellow Creek development and its good producer on the Silcott farm, on the north bank of the Little Kanawha river. A very light showing of oil was developed, and unless a shot helps it will not make a paying producer. Southwest of the old development, near the river, there is some new work under way and should be completed soon.

There is very little wildcatting now in Calhoun county. The few ventures completed during the past three months proved dusters and there is no disposition shown to continue the search. In Roane and Kanawha counties, a few test wells are drilling and starting. There are two incentives for this work. The first is oil and the second gas.

Operators in Southeastern Ohio are showing a little more energy in starting new work than those on the West Virginia side. In the former fields they have a slight advantage over many parts of West Virginia for the reason that it is comparatively shallow territory. The efforts to find new producing territory have not been fruitful to any appreciable degree.

There is scarcely any move making to discover new producing territory outside of the counties that are known to be within the limits previously defined. In Harrison county there is still some experimental work under way and starting.

In the shallow sand districts in Washington the late completions show a low average in production, and many wells fall to the long list of dusters. In some fields as many dry holes are completed as there are producng wells. The Berea grit pools in Monroe county are receiving the most attention at this time and the completions show a better average in production than any other development on the Ohio side.

Very little producing property is changing hands at this time. Brokers in production find it a difficult matter to negotiate sales. There is a little property offered and a few small sales consummated, but owners have placed a higher value on their holdings than conservative would-be purchasers will entertain.

There is a vast difference in opinion as to the intrinsic value of settled production at this time. All realize the fact that to sell with the expectation of going out and taking up leases with a view to securing new production is next to impossible. The past two years have brought many disappointments of that kind. Unless a producer contemplates retiring from the business it would be well to consider carefully a proposition to sell. The recent advances in the market have placed a new and higher value on producing properties in all fields.

WHY THE MASSES ARE UNCHURCHED

Homewood Pastor Says Dress and Personal Interests Are Held More Important.

TOUCHES ON RECENT EVENTS

Under the sermon theme, "Why the Church Fails to Reach the Masses," and using for his text, Matt., vi:33: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness," the Rev. George W. Taft gave some reasons to the congregation of the Homewood Baptist church last evening why churches are not more fully supported. He said in part:

People of this age and vicinity, with few exceptions, know enough about God and Jesus Christ to know that they must personally give an account of their own lives. No matter how inconsistent Christians are, or how much the church fails, they know enough of God's truth to know they are sinners, that they need a savior and that if they are lost the responsibility rests primarily upon them for not living up to the light which they have. The reasons given by our non-Christian population for not ratifying themselves with God or the church would be a fruitful theme, but the purpose is to deal with our failures and its reasons as are who are inside the church see and know it.

Some indications which show the failure of the church to grip the community are seen in the small church attendance while there are multitudes who rarely if ever enter church doors; in the lack of moral force among many of our educational leaders whose mouth in private are polluted with foul stories and whose lives are far from being good examples for our children; in the profanity and vulgarity which abounds on the street and in the shop, and which has earned for us the sobriquet of "The Swearing Nation;" in the lack of civic and commercial honesty which has been as well illustrated during recent days by the insurance exposures, attempted gas steals, bank failures, municipal graft, calling men like Cunliffe and Clerk men of "good habits, devoted to their families."

Biblical Examples to Follow.

In the Bible we have many examples of the attitude which the people of God should take on all these questions which affect the whole public as far as righteousness is concerned. Elijah, Jeremiah, Isaiah, Daniel, Hosea, Amos, John the Baptist, Peter, Paul and Jesus himself who cried aloud and spared not and called out for the people of God to separate themselves from all forms of iniquity. When we consider these exemplars and the present day members, power, influence and wealth of Christendom, why have we failed? In the parable of the wedding feast we have the excuses pictured and the commands given which we have so imperfectly carried out.

It illustrates the excuse of the professing Christian who will permit his vested interests of any kind to stand between him and active, effective service for Jesus Christ. The Christian miser, who gloats over his gold, instead of using it for the glory of God; the Christian society woman who permits her dress, her parties, her jewels, her social functions, in short her possessions, to interfere in any way with her Christian development. The Christian man who spends his Sundays solely in visiting and enjoying his possessions, no matter what those possessions are; the Christian student who permits his studies to absorb all of his time; the Christian boy who lets sport dominate everything else, the Christian girl whose pleasures stand between her and Christian service, are all lineal descendants of the man who went to see his estate.

We Americans are money mad. The ceaseless grind of labor and our mad rush for gold blunt the sharp edge of our effectiveness. The toil of the week and particularly of Saturday night unfits us for the day of God's worship. The slightest business excuse stands between us and the mid-week prayer service. We care more about acquiring a man's dollar than we do about winning his soul. We begrudge the Lord 15 minutes of time given in work for Him, and spend hours and days in laying up treasure on earth. In our rush for money we rob God of the time which belongs to Him. "Seek first the kingdom of work and money" has taken the place of our text. Let the world have its time and God can take what is left.

Putting Family Above Religion.

The excuse of the man who had married a wife and could not come shows us the class that let domestic burdens and joys stand between them and aggressive work for Christ. Christianity exalts the family and glorifies all domestic ties and points out clearly our duties to those bound to us by blood and affection, but children must not be dearer than our Savior and work for our loved ones must not exclude work for the Christ. Jesus must be in the midst no matter what our obligations are.

Putting forth these excuses, seeking our own ends rather than God's righteousness, is it any wonder that we fail to grip the masses and to go out into the streets and lanes and highways and hedges and compel others to come in? Accepting the Welsh revival, since the latter day there has been no revival worthy the name for reaching the unchurched. We are scratching the soil where we should have plowed deep. We have failed to reach the masses because we are self centered rather than Christ centered. The most prominent evangelistic pastor of Greater Pittsburgh told me this past week that he thought that three per cent was a large estimate of those inside the church during the past 50 years who had really worked for the outside masses.

Large and Fashionable Congregation Attend Early Evening Services in St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church.

cantatas and English cathedral musical services which have been under preparation during the summer.

The offering yesterday afternoon was Coombs's "Vision of St. John," which was sung by Miss Sylia Marcello Elcock, the operatic singer, who was assisted by a trained choir of 15 picked voices under direction of Organist Charles S. Johnson.

The congregation is endeavoring to encourage high-class, artistic music for the evening services on Sunday, and the vestry has made a liberal appropriation to carry out this idea. Special attention to this branch of the service has been given by Musical Director Johnson during the past year and a number of classical compositions have been produced.

GIVES LECTURE UPON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Prof. Hering Delivers an Interesting Discourse to Beaver Falls Audience.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Oct. 29.—Under the auspices of First Church of Christ Scientist of this town, Prof Herman S. Hering of Boston, a member of the lecture board of the church, delivered a lecture upon Christian Science this afternoon in the Lyceum theater. The auditorium was filled by an interested audience.

Prof. Hering's lecture was in part as follows:

When I first heard of Christian Science its doctrines seemed very wonderful to me, and for the reason that as a philosophy it presents a theory and analysis of the problem of moral existence, that not only seems to be logical, and consistent in every detail, but that can be at once applied to the solution of that problem—a philosophy founded absolutely upon divine principle making God its very center and circumference. As a science it furnishes a complete, definite, and demonstrable statement of truth, free from speculative hypotheses, and without any missing links in the system. It is based upon a fixed principle and rules with no exceptions or variations. As a religion it reveals an interpretation of the scriptures that is wholly consistent and demonstrable, it explains satisfactorily the miracles and expounds the teachings and methods of Jesus and the apostles in a way which makes them entirely practical today—it reinstates spiritual healing as an essential element of Christianity, and a necessary outcome of spiritual understanding. This unexpected presentation of a satisfying, a perfect science and a demonstrable religion impressed me greatly and I questioned, Is it true? If true it is the most wonderful and most valuable discovery ever made, for it settles every question that confronts man in religious and social life, in business and in morals. After three years of very careful investigation and demonstration I came to the conclusion that it was indeed true that at last there had come to the world a salvation which would bring "the glorious liberty of the children of God," the comforter that the Father was to send in Christ's name to lead us into all truth.

It should be clearly understood that Christian Science is a discovery and not an invention. Its truth, its power, its law, have always existed and are declared in the Holy Scriptures, but they have never before been fully preserved or set forth as a demonstrable science, attesting the truth of sayings of the great teacher, Christ Jesus, delivered centuries ago, and handed down to us in fragmentary form. Jesus demonstrated his teachings by healing the sick, casting out evils, raising the dead, and performing what the world called miracles, and taught his disciples to do the same, yet the scriptures contain no fixed rule or scientific process by which this power can be acquired and applied by students. Jesus practiced the tender God inspired art of healing, which through the providence of God has been restored to the world today as a science of healing with principle and practice which cannot be lost.

In reference to Mrs. Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Professor Hering said:

I have had opportunity to know much of her wonderful ability. She is a devoted follower of Christ, is looking continually to Jesus' life and teachings as well as to the entire scriptures for light and guidance, and places the utmost reliance upon God. It is with her always a question of what God wants her to do—never consulting her own will or pleasure. Her sole aim is to serve God and to do His will in establishing upon earth the wonderful truth revealed to her, and her heart's desire is to proclaim to the world this glorious gospel that the kingdom of heaven is now at hand.

About 150 Christian Scientists from Pittsburgh attended the lecture.

TELLS OF THE GROWTH OF CHRISTIAN LIFE

The Rev. John H. Dietrich Holds That Spiritual Improvement Must Necessarily be Slow.

"The Christian Life—A Growth," was the title of the sermon delivered in St. Mark's Reformed church yesterday morning by the Rev. John H. Dietrich, who has just been called to that pulpit. He made a plea that there be no impatience because of the apparent slowness of spiritual growth, and said in part:

"First the blade, then the ear, and after that the full corn in the ear." This parable fits the spirit of the age. One of the great words of the modern world is "Growth." Once the universe was looked upon as a vast machine, but now is regarded as an organism. Not only has the earth grown, but every thing upon it has grown. Languages have grown, governments have grown, the arts have grown, and so has religion.

The Bible has grown, too. It was not dropped upon the earth from the heavens. It came up through the hearts of sinning, struggling, aspiring men. Spiritual life did not start upon the earth perfect. Men did not have an adequate conception of God at first, many of their conceptions were erroneous. They often mistook their own thoughts and impulses for those of God. The Hebrew people sanctioned polygamy and slavery and many other things condemned by the ethical standards of today, because in relation to the life of the race they were young and ignorant. Back in those days the spiritual life was merely a blade. Trace its history as it rose higher and higher and in the prophets you have the ear. It continues growing until the Christ-born blossoms out in that perfect flower, Jesus of Nazareth.

This idea of growth holds true in regard to the church. The church has been accused of being narrow and bigoted. Perhaps it is, but the church is yet in its infancy. The church has not been able to overcome all the evils of the world, because it is as yet but a blade. If God took millions of years to build the earth to suit him, who knows how many millions of years he will consume in perfecting the church, or in other words the spiritual life of the world.

Now, what is true of the universe and of the Bible and of the church is true of the spiritual life of the individual. No man can become perfect in a day, nor a week, nor a year. A man may become a Christian, because a Christian is a pupil, a learner, and the church is a school. This is the encouraging part of our parable. Many men become discouraged at a short time after entering upon the Christian life, when they are not able to be as good as they hope, because they forget that they must first be a blade. That is all that is possible at first. Then the ear, and a long time afterwards the corn.

The church is a school of morals. Christianity is the science of right living and character building. The Bible is God's hand-book, full of directions, and the Christian is a pupil in Christ's school. He is a bad man who wants to become good, or a good man who wants to become better, or the best of men who wants to be one like Christ. This soul-growth is necessarily slow, because man is a free agent and cannot be acted upon from without. He must be led on by experience. The best progress is made by accepting and turning to good use every experience through which God leads us. Every day's life should be in some way significant for the perfecting of the soul and we should make good use of the benefit derived from every experience.

Man's primary business in this world is the developing of his soul. We have many different occupations, but no matter what a man's work may be, every moment and every act is an opportunity for doing the one thing, becoming Christ-like. There are many varieties of life and just as many paths to saintly character, and whoever has not yet found out how to make all his experiences converge towards his soul's perfection has thus far missed the meaning of his life.

REVIVAL DRAWS IMMENSE CROWD

Theater and Church Are Filled at Opening of Christian Evangelistic Movement.

VISITORS SING EN ROUTE

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the hour set for the opening service of the century simultaneous revival of Christian churches of Western Pennsylvania in the Nixon theater, several hundred people were congregated in front of the doors of the playhouse, unable to gain admittance.

Long before the hour set for the beginning of the evangelistic service the 2,600 seats in the building had been taken and the standing room limit was reached as far as the fire regulations permit. To meet the emergency the old Third Presbyterian church opposite was pressed into service and within 15 minutes after its doors were thrown open this building was also filled to its utmost.

The Rev. Dr. Wallace Tharp of the First church, Allegheny, presided in the theater, while the Rev. John G. Slayter was in charge of the overflow meeting in the church. The Netz sisters quartet, whose singing was a feature of the services, alternated between the two meetings, as did several of the evangelists who hurried to and fro across the street and spoke in both places. Owing to the hearty support given the initial meeting steps will be taken to accommodate larger crowds next Sunday. Fully 5,000 gathered at the two services and in both places many stepped forward at the conclusion and announced themselves ready for conversion. In the theater an offering of $143.05 was taken up, while in the church an offering of $35.67 was given.

Services in 26 Churches.

The revival is being conducted in 26 churches in Pittsburgh and vicinity and meetings will be addressed nightly. 40 evangelists having been engaged. The noon meetings in the old Third Presbyterian church will be features of the revival and will begin today with the Rev. Cecil Armstrong of Lexington, Ky., will deliver the address and the Netz sisters' quartet will sing.

The Wilkinsburg Christian church was represented at the theater meeting yesterday by 250 of its communicants who came to the city in two special cars and sang hymns all the way in. Congregations from all sections of Western Pennsylvania were represented at both meetings.

The Christian church (Disciples of Christ) is a branch of the Baptist family, and was organized through the preachings of the Revs. Thomas and Alexander Campbell. In 1808 the Rev. Thomas Campbell gave to the "declaration and address" that established the congregation which today numbers 1,500,000 communicants. The first church, locally, was established in Allegheny in 1825. Today there are 26 churches in this vicinity with a total of 30,000 enrolled members.

All the local clergymen of the denomination were present at yesterday's meetings as well as evangelists W. T. Brooks, W. J. Wright, Vernon Stauffer, Allen Wilson, John E. Pounds and others.

Rev. Dr. Pounds Preaches Sermon.

The Rev. W. T. Brooks offered the invocation at the meeting at the Nixon theater, the scriptures being read by the Rev. W. J. Wright. The Rev. Vernon Stauffer led in prayer. The Rev. Fred M. Gordon, pastor of the Knoxville Christian church, led the singing at the Nixon theater and Evangelist A. K. Brooks led the singing at the Third church. He has been regularly assigned to the Central Christian church, Pride street. The Rev. L. N. D. Wells pronounced the benediction. Dr. Tharp, in speaking of the Nixon theater, said that it is an affair to the living God, and gloried that so many Christian people could be assembled under its roof. Before introducing Dr. Pounds he pleaded that the church be one in Christ on the foundation of baptism. Dr. Pounds took his text from Matthew xvi:13, and said in part:

Some of us do not feel very well satisfied with our past. We would like to begin life over again and see if we could not do better. I have known men when they came to middle life to leave the communities where they were brought up and go to some place where they were not known and, if they thought it was an honorable thing to do, they would even take a new name in order that they might get a new start in life and try to make the page of life at least a little cleaner. Oh, if some of us could but wipe out the past and begin anew, how much better it would be!

By His word He warns us lest we fall, and I think I will not go too far when I say that sometimes when His own are in danger, by His mighty power He puts His hands on the shoulder and kindly holds us back from failing. Surely that is the very best salvation. But the word on which the great meaning of this text turns is the next word, Jesus is the Christ. The word Christ is, as you know, the name of an office rather than the name of a person; it is not a proper name, but an official name. That is the distinction. I would have you carefully notice, not "Jesus Christ," but "Jesus the Christ."

Prophet Has Two-Fold Office.

Now Jesus is our prophet. A prophet has a two-fold office. The great office of a prophet was that of a teacher. Our word preacher, if it were a little larger and better and deeper in its meaning, would pretty nearly translate the word prophet. Sometimes the brethren tell me that my conscience is a guide and that I ought to listen to it and do what my conscience tells me. God says "This is My Son, hear Him." Sometimes brethren say to me, "These editors and our wise men who write books and teach us, we ought to pay attention to what they say. God says, 'This is My beloved Son, hear Him.'" Sometimes I am told that the councils of the church have selected very wise men and that they have got together and decided what men ought to believe. God says, "This is My beloved Son, hear Him."

Did you ever notice that a mother who has lost her little child will go to some other mother for comfort, who has also lost her child, because she knows that other mother will understand the grief that is in her heart as nobody else can. I was called upon like other preachers to preach at funerals, but I always thought that I was the poorest person they could ask to speak to them in that sad hour, because for more than 40 years, though my father had a large family, death did not come into our home, and a part of that time I had a family of my own. Death did not come there either. So I felt I did not know what was in the heart of the people who wept, but when that gray haired father, who taught me of God and how to pray, went home, and a sister with him, then I began to understand what death and grief were.

The Gates of Hades.

Jesus said, "On this rock I will build my church and the gates of Hades will not prevail against it." What are the gates of hades? Hades simply means the unseen world, what is commonly called the next world. This word has no reference to good or evil. It is simply the world we go to when we leave this world. How do we get into the next world? What is the gate to the yard? Is it the yard? No. It is the place to go into the yard. How do we enter the next world? By death. "Death shall not prevail against it." That is what He says.

An old gray haired preacher met me one day and said: I have a question to ask you, "If a man would say that he believed with all his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, if I understand you, you would baptise him?" "Yes," I said I certainly would. "But suppose that you got down into the water and said, "I baptise you into the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost," and the candidate would say he did not believe there was any Holy Spirit, then what would you do?" You see the man's point? I had not asked anything about the man's faith in the Holy Spirit. I was just a young boy at that time, and the first thing that came into my head was that I would drown him. But he was a very old man and I was young, and I kept my tongue and did not say it.

The answer that I did make was this: "My brother, you say that the man believes with all his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the son of the living God?" "Yes." "Christ says there is a Holy Spirit, does He not?" "Oh yes." "Well, if the man believes in Him, he would believe there is a Holy Spirit, would he not?"

Jesus the Christ stands with one hand on the Old Testament, saying, "Ye search the Scriptures, for they testify of Me," and the other hand on the New Testament, "He is the Son of God."

I said in the beginning that what I was going to say is what you can hear from nearly all the so-called evangelical pulpits of Pittsburgh and America, thank God. The Disciples of Christ are not alone in believing that He is the Christ or teaching what it means. I say then, why wouldn't this be a good thing, this foundation of faith of Christ, on which to extend our hands and join with all who believe it and be one indeed in Christ?

Should All Stand Together.

Brethren, here is my hand. I am ready. They had better not stand with us or we with them, but together in faith in Jesus Christ and loyal obedience to Him. We ought all to be one. Why are we not? I will not argue that question. I suppose some of it is my fault. I am sure it is, because I have some prejudices I may have to preach, and I find that some of the brethren everywhere are a little like me in that respect. I only suggest that when we and all of us will forget ourselves and our prejudices, and our misery even, everything in Jesus the Christ, the day will then be won and we will be one indeed.

What an honor it is to speak these words that were spoken by Peter that day. I have great respect for them because of the people who have made this great confession. I want to mention one or two. When Nathanael saw Jesus under the tree he said, "Thou art the Christ of God. Thou art the King of Israel." Simon's own brother, Andrew, said, "We have found the Messiah," that is, being interpreted, the Christ. Martha said, "Yea, Lord, Thou art the Christ of God."

BURGESS-PASTOR SAYS HE IS LIKE SAVIOUR

Minister Under Charges Delivers Bitter Sermon in Bidding Congregation Farewell.

In a sermon in which he likened himself to the Saviour, the Rev. T. C. Anderson, the burgess-preacher of Tarentum, against whom charges of disorderly conduct and breach of the peace were entered last week by his wife, bade his congregation farewell last night.

The Rev. Mr. Anderson, who has been serving the United Presbyterian congregation, and who was the subject of the board of inquiry of presbytery several weeks ago, preached a bitter sermon which he said was for the workingman. His text was James v:2-4: "Your riches are corrupted and your garments are moth-eaten. Behold, the hire of the laborers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth."

Mr. Anderson said when he went to Tarentum, almost 12 years ago, his ambition was to build a large church, but since that time factions have arisen in the church and spoiled all his plans. He blamed his trouble on the wealthy members of his congregation, saying that they would not work in unison with the poorer classes. He has always been popular with the working class and this popularity was responsible for his election to the office of burgess. At the close of his sermon he declared the pulpit vacant. The presbytery will supply ministers until his successor is appointed. For the present he will remain in Tarentum. His term as burgess does not expire until next March.

FOUR PASTORS LEAVE.

Farewell Sermons Are Preached by Several Local Clergymen to Their Congregations.

Four local pastors preached their farewell sermons to their congregations yesterday. The Rev. Dr. W. P. Schrom, who for 19 years has served the Fourth Presbyterian church, Evaline street, addressed his congregation as pastor for the last time yesterday morning. Next Sunday the Rev. Dr. Samuel Callen, who comes from Waterloo, Ia., will assume the pulpit.

Dr. Schrom has been in the active ministry 31 years and was born in Carlisle, Pa., 65 years ago. During his pastorate just closed he received 1,065 persons into membership and has been very prominent in local denominational work. The congregation presented a special music service in his honor last evening.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Jolly bade farewell to the Concord Presbyterian congregation yesterday morning to accept the presidency of Mary Holmes seminary, West Point, Miss.; the Rev. William Surdival said goodby to the South Side Welsh Congregational congregation to accept a call to the Gomer congregation of Ohio, and the Rev. J. W. Romich, pastor of St Luke's Lutheran church, Allegheny, also closed his pastorate yesterday.

It is the first Magyar church to be erected in the Shenango valley and will be conducted under the supervision of the Shenango presbytery. It cost about $5,000.

ORPHANS RENEW OLD FRIENDSHIP

Tots at St. Paul's Asylum Entertain Large Gathering of Their Benefactors.

FINE PROGRAM OF MUSIC

Old Sol didn't look very bright yesterday, but there was sunshine at Idlewood, where the dreary haze of autumn could not overshadow the radiance of hundreds of happy little faces at St. Paul's orphan asylum. It was the third annual entertainment by the orphans for their benefactors in the relief association, and right cheerily did the tiny people act the part of hosts and hostesses to more than 1,000 of their friends from all parts of Allegheny county.

The Rev. Father M. J. Lynch, superintendent of the asylum, three years ago suggested to his proteges that it would be the proper thing for the children to entertain the people who give so generously toward the support of the institution, and his suggestion was met by a chorus of cheers. The orphans are proud that they can do things, and felt that they could make the grown folks feel well repaid by attending the entertainment. The first gathering was a surprise in that it showed unlooked-for talent. Last year the program was a little more elaborate and yesterday afternoon some marked ability was shown by the little entertainers.

On the platform was a chorus of 200 boys and girls. Some were dressed as mail carriers, some impersonated fairies and some wore the uniforms of military cadets and carried small guns, but all sang and lifted their voices with an enthusiasm that made their melodies touching and refreshing.

The songs were full of action. There was an opening hymn and a little speech of greeting and thanks, but the entire program was not altogether of a religious character—that is, as the term religion is used. However, it was all a very solemn and impressive service to those who thoroughly understood the feelings in the hearts of the fatherless and motherless children who faced the big audience. When they sang a patriotic song or a tune that recalled old Erin or indulged in some of their prattling games it gave them as much joy and cheered their souls just as much as a Psalm or an anthem.

Not all the children in the asylum could take part. There were several hundred babies in the kindergarten and the lower school rooms who were obliged to roll about the floor or climb over the benches, while they were deprived of the show that was going on in the hall. Their eyes grew large as they greeted the visitors, and when the music ceased and supper was announced, their delight was not easily concealed. In the school rooms of the upper grades were older boys and girls who could not take part also, and they grew restless while they drew pictures of cows, horses, trolley cars, big ships and engines and things while they waited for the performance to close and their playfellows could come back from the stage.

At the close of the entertainment a bountiful lunch of hot coffee, sandwiches, pickles, cheese and cake was served in the dining hall. The older girls waited on the tables and proved themselves able assistants to the sisters, and very graceful hostesses, too.

Belasco Theater Notes

Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company in their remarkable performance of "Leah Kleschna," are to be seen at the Belasco theater tonight. This will be the first opportunity that Pittsburgh theater-goers will have to see this play.

"Loveland" is the name of the newest musical comedy success and it comes to the Belasco theater one week from tonight, presented by Will J. Block's company of 70 people—comedians, comediennes, singers and dancers and the big American beauty chorus.

EQUITABLE PLACES BIG MORTGAGES HERE

Agents of Pittsburgh Branch Expect to Break All October Records for New Business.

As an indication of the great faith the Equitable Life Assurance society has in the stability and business future of Pittsburgh the society, within the last two days, has approved the applications for mortgage loans on Pittsburgh business properties amounting to $385,000. Applications for a like amount have also been made, and it is probable they will be approved in a few days, making the latest investment of the Equitable society in Pittsburgh business property about $770,000,000.

The visit to Pittsburgh of Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, for the observation of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the Pittsburgh branch of the society, which will be held next Wednesday, has stirred up the agents of the society in Western Pennsylvania, and the indications are that the business of the Pittsburgh agency for the present month will break all records for new business during October in the history of the local agency. Up to the close of business Saturday the total amount of new business done by the local agency this month amounted to $1,150,000. The amount of business done so far this month eclipses the record for every October but one since the Pittsburgh branch was established, and the indications are that a new record for October will be established by next Wednesday.

The placing of this great amount of life insurance by residents of Western Pennsylvania with the Equitable shows that the confidence of residents of this section of the state in the society is stronger than ever, and the new business done by the company so far this month exceeds that of any other life insurance company in this section. The Pittsburgh branch contributes about $5,000,000 worth of new business annually to the Equitable society, and the premium income from the local branch amounts to about $4,000,000.

The regular fall meeting of the local branch will be held next Wednesday, when Edward A. Woods, manager of the Pittsburgh branch, will give a dinner to the agents. The twenty-fifth anniversary will also be observed at the same time.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But It Has Proved of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump it can only result from the food we eat and digest and that food should be albuminous or flesh forming food, like eggs, beefsteak and cereals; in other words the kinds of food that make flesh are the foods which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach, from abuse and overwork, does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason so many people remain thin and under weight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food-forming beefsteak and eggs and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking, after each meal, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these tablets contain the natural peptones and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and by supplying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men, women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic nor any harmful ingredient.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and most widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

SPECULATIVE MARKET MAY BE SEVERELY TESTED SOON

Russian Disturbances, New York Municipal Campaign and the State of Money Are Factors That Must Be Squarely Faced.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—There is every likelihood the stability of the speculative market will be put to some severe tests in the immediate present and near future. How severe these will be and how long continued it is impossible to say. That depends largely on the outcome of the Russian disorders; whether they develop into revolution and anarchy, or pass away as the uprising did in January.

But while the Russian situation and its influences on the world's money market is the most important of the factors with which the immediate market must deal, it is not the only one. Both the local municipal campaign, with its powerful drift toward socialism, and the immediate money market, are also calculated to test the speculative market's strength.

Whether the recent easing in money rates marks a definite tendency toward relaxation at this time, or has been influenced by some special and temporary causes, should in part be determined this coming week. To many persons it has seemed entirely anomalous that money rates should have relaxed to such a degree here in view of the high money and discount rates abroad and the very meager cash reserves and tremendous obligations of the local financial institutions. There is probably not more than 3½ or 12 per cent cash reserve in this city today, against the combined deposit liabilities of the clearing house banks, non-member banks and trust companies. During the interval from October 14 to last Saturday the bank statement shows an increase in cash of but $6,293,200, and loans have expanded $10,535,100, yet during about the same period, time money has eased about 1 to 1½ per cent and call money has receded from 7 to about 3¾ per cent, while demand sterling exchange has run up nearly 1½ cents in the pound, to 4.8715, and hangs there, close to the gold exporting point.

To many persons there does not seem to have been a sufficient improvement in the banking position, and certainly not in the movement of foreign exchange against New York, to justify such a relaxation of rates. That matter, however, will, in all probability, be tested this week in the calls and shifting incident to the heavy November disbursements and the special operation in connection with the transfer of the proceeds of the last Japanese loan from the banking house which floated the issue to the financial agent of the Japanese government. Reference has already been made to the fact in this column that the Japanese money was practically earmarked. It has been suggested that its liberal offering on call, following the payment of the last installment on October 16, is an ease to the money market which might prove to be largely artificial when the fund, amounting to some $40,000,000, was withdrawn from the stock market.

It is not at all unlikely there may be some revision of opinion concerning the money market as a result of the calling and shifting of loans attendant upon the November disbursements, and the transaction in Japanese money. It is not to be inferred that the latter sum is to be immediately shipped out of the country. But whereas now no reserves whatsoever are maintained against it by the private banking firm which has been loaning it in the street, when the amount is called and redeposited with the banks and trust companies of the city, there will be the necessity of maintaining reserves against the deposit. At least there will be the necessity of maintaining reserves against such proportion of the money as is deposited in the banks. It is really not a very high compliment that is paid to the prevailing banking system of New York, when in figuring on money deposited in institutions one has to differentiate in estimating the possible contraction of loanable funds between institutions that maintain reserves and other institutions, doing an identical business, which maintain no reserves at all, or practically none.

It is to be hoped the modern theory of banking, which dispenses with cash reserves and substitutes call loans, as a basis of protection against any unusual demand, may not be seriously tested at this time. The market and the banking position does not seem to be any too strong to enable the community to stand calmly by if an experiment of the workings of this theory should become necessary. With the country's unusual good position, Wall street may muddle through in some fashion or other, but it will be good luck rather than good financial methods or safe banking that will carry us through. Of course, no one could have foreseen that the Russian laborers, railway employes, farmers, mechanics, professional men and students would rise in revolt that borders upon revolution and anarchy; but since they have done so, a condition, not a theory, confronts all financial markets, which impels caution and calls for a strengthening of resources everywhere.

In view of the week's developments it is difficult to conceive of a more foolish or ill-timed speculative movement than that inaugurated about 10 days ago in the "specialties" of the industrial list and stimulated by all manner of manipulative tricks and devices, the marking up of high-grade issues to reckless figures, the "churning" and "washing" of pool and clique securities, already raised to a figure that had placed them beyond the reach of prudent investors. If one thing is clearer than another concerning Wall street, it assuredly is that the public has played practically no part in the advancing security market, which dates approximately from the day that the Equitable Life Assurance Society passed from the control of one individual by purchase to another.

It is not difficult to determine why the public, with all the bountiful crops and the bright promises, has held aloof from the market and left the whole affair to the gamblers. It is clearly disturbed by the long series of scandalous disclosures, breaches of trust among the most exalted, moral insensibility upon the part of high officials, to the self-admitted acts of bribery and corruption; extravagant waste, impudent ignorance of fundamental details of great business enterprises, favoritism, and the use of great fiduciary institutions and sacred trusts for personal emolument. To hold all men alike guilty of such offenses is highly unjust, but at times the innocent suffer with the guilty, and at this time such a pool of dereliction of duty has been disclosed that the ordinary individual has grown to believe all is rottenness in corporations, and that most of the great fortunes have been dishonestly obtained. Such is the theory that underlies a socialistic municipal campaign, and the most unfortunate part of the whole thing is that the red flag could not have been unfurled had not the black flag been for so long a time, and so brazenly, flaunted to the breeze.

PARIS, TOO, IS AFFECTED.

Bourse Is Shaken by Russian Troubles, but the Prices of Russian Bonds Holds Fairly Well.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—(Special, Cable.)—The bourse has been deeply affected by the Russian disturbances, but the prices of Russian bonds, apart from this, held fairly well. Nevertheless business is almost at a standstill, pending a solution of the Russian situation.

Another unsettled influence has been the adjournment of the new Russian issue. The principal news has been the announcement of the increase of the capital of the Societe Generale to 250,000,000 fracs, the issue being guaranteed by the Banque De Paris and Paysbas.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS FINDS A READY SALE

Trade Good on Local Markets and Prices Remain Firm. Hams Lower in Price.

Trade on local markets was exceedingly good Saturday. Buyers came early and large purchases were made. Prices as a general thing remained steady during the day and there were few changes. Butternuts made their appearance on the market and there was a large sale on all nuts in anticipation of the many festivities which will occur on Tuesday evening.

Heavy and skinned hams were lowered in price yesterday. Hams, 18 pounds and up, are now selling at 10¾ cents and skinned hams can be bought for 11 cents.

Groceries are steady in price and the market is active. Sugar and flour are both steady, although a break is looked for with each, and flour will probably advance in price.

Produce of all sorts found an active market. Celery and cabbage are having very good sales. In the fruit line grapes are leading in sales, although there is a steady call for pears and apples.

An advance in butter is looked for in today's report from Elgin. The cheese market is weak.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts yesterday were—Pennsylvania lines, 2 cars hay, 5 cars corn, 9 cars oats; Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 7 cars hay, 4 cars corn, 1 car oats, 1 car feed; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 2 cars hay, 1 car oats, 1 car rye.

The market has been firm all week. Oats closed higher than since the new crop took the place of old oats, and from all indications top prices have not been reached yet. While export demand continues higher prices may be looked for. Corn is in good demand. The supply is scant and all arrivals are quickly picked up. Millfeed and straw are steady. Good hay is wanted at top prices, lower grades are dull.

LONDON EXCHANGE IS IN STATE OF GLOOM

Russian Bugaboo Terrifies Market—Home Rails Are Only Bright Spot in Darkness.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
(Copyright, 1905, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Though I wrote last week that cautious operators did not place much reliance on the upward rush which had taken place, and that no permanent improvement could be expected this side of the new year, hardly anybody was prepared for such another complete change of sentiment as has taken place. The fact of the matter is, nearly every section of the stock exchange is plunged into the deepest gloom or something akin to nervous prostration.

The attack was sudden, the trouble commenced at once with the opening of the unfortunate 19-day period, and a heavy dose of liquidation from Paris set everybody in a fluster. On top of this came disquieting news from Russia, and then, to wind up with, it was found Wall street had also got an attack of nerves. Then the fat was all in the fire.

If one were to believe or take into consideration most of the talk to be heard in the city at the close of this week, one might imagine a terrific slump—a slump which would make all previous slumps look like five cents in a dollar—was at hand. And what are the reasons for this state of nerves?

Judging from all the talk, they are as old as the hills. One hears on all hands the old argument that the convulsion in Russia is bound to be accompanied by a financial panic in Paris, in the course of which every foreign security held in the French capital will be flung overboard in the wild scramble for money.

The idea of France being a creditor of Russia to the extent of something bordering on $2,250,000,000 seems to stick in the gullets of the croakers, but it is pointed out by the more level-headed financial writers, that if the matter be only considered calmly for a moment it is impossible to remember when the disruption of the Russian empire was not imminent. The same story was told after the Crimea, but it is even older than that. Most optimistic of writers reviewing the financial situation as a whole, seem to be of the opinion Russia will emerge from the present crisis stronger than ever before.

The fact remains that for the present the stock exchange is in a wretchedly unsettled state, and the bears, following closely on the heels of the sellers, are having everything their own way. But while prices in all directions have been falling, home rails have been going up. That is the only section which remains bright amid the gloom.

Improving traffic, due to increased freight, with expanding trade, have been the immediate cause of this movement, which was easier brought about. From which was easier brought about. From the lowness of level to which values have been allowed to sink there has already been a substantial appreciation, but, looking at the list, it would seem that there is still ample room for improvement in nearly every direction, especially if the present dividend anticipations should be realized.

The money market has this week been in a very straightened condition, partly owing to the payment for $12,500,000 of treasury bills and partly because the joint stock banks have been calling in their balances and partly owing to the demands of the stock exchange settlement.

MORE LIGHT THROWN ON FERGUSON MURDER

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—Additional light was thrown on the plot to murder Contractor Samuel Ferguson at West Middleton, two years ago, when 20 sticks of dynamite were found yesterday near the spot where Ferguson was blown to his death by a dynamite mine in the road. A short time ago two shotguns were found in the same place, it being thought that these were held by the men who covered the retreat of the men who stole the money.

The Whitney Company has been formed for the purpose of developing the water power of the Yadkin River in North Carolina. A letter from Mr. George I. Whitney, of Messrs. Whitney & Stephenson, Pittsburgh, President of the Company, gives the following details:

Present development, 40,000 horse-power, with sufficient land (over 13,000 acres), and water rights to build an additional 50,000 horse-power plant. Within a radius of 80 miles (easily reached by electric power transmission) there are now 257 cotton mills, using about 73,000 steam horse-power, costing $35 to $50 per annum. There are also numerous other mills and furniture factories within the same radius—contracts could now be made for the entire present development of 40,000 electric horse-power at highly remunerative rates.

Gross Annual Earnings, estimated	$630,000
Operating Expenses	$97,000
Interest on Bonds	270,000—367,000
Estimated Surplus	$263,000

We quote in detail from Mr. Whitney's letter as follows:

"I do not hesitate to say that the project is sound in every particular. The Company owns an enormous and unfailing water power; the work is now more than 25% completed, and is being rapidly pushed by competent contractors, the T. A. Gillespie Company. There is a permanent constantly increasing demand for electric power at profitable prices without competition from nearby coal fields or forests, and there is no doubt that the Company will prove a highly profitable investment from its start.

"The development of this property from its inception has been in charge of the highest talent procurable in the country, and this is true of its legal and engineering departments, of the contractors who have taken charge of construction, who rank second to none in the country, and of the electrical and hydraulic builders, who will be readily recognized as of the highest class.

"As you know, there is demand for bonds of well-planned water power projects by reason of the permanence and large profits of such undertakings, as well as the inability of investors to buy desirable public utility or municipal bonds at remunerative prices. The bonds you now offer are, in my opinion, well secured, and should sell at a considerable premium in due time.

"Very truly yours, GEO. I. WHITNEY, President."

$1,600,000 of the bonds having been sold, we offer the remaining $3,000,000 for subscription at 100 and accrued interest.

Copies of the Prospectus and Mortgage can be had on application.

Report of Messrs. Hering & Fuller, Engineers, and the opinion of Hon. John S. Henderson, of Salisbury, N. C., as to the legality of the bond issue, can be seen at our office.

TERMS OF TRADE ARE A MYSTERY

Ordinances Withheld for Exchange of Junction Right of Way and Boundary Street.

BIGELOW ADJOURNS COUNCIL

Much mystery exists concerning the terms of the agreement between Director Bigelow and the Pittsburgh Junction railroad regarding the exchange of the right-of-way of the railroad and Boundary street through Junction hollow in Schenley park.

Director Bigelow a month ago announced that the railroad would give up its present right of way to the city and accept in lieu of it Boundary street, which runs parallel to the railroad. The director claimed the ground now occupied by the railroad would be suitable for a new boulevard.

Ordinances were to have been introduced in councils a month ago containing the terms upon which the exchange is made, but for some reason the ordinances have been withheld and will not be presented to councils until after the election, owing to the fact that orders have gone out that no meeting shall be held today.

In the absence of definite information concerning the trade made by the railroad with Director Bigelow, it is claimed by many that there will be a heavy expense attached to the removal of the tracks. The agreement, whatever it is, between the city and the railroad is said to be in practical operation. It was stated yesterday that one of the two tracks of the railroad which runs through Junction hollow is no longer in use, and that the big South Side water main is being laid under it.

Director Bigelow does not wish a meeting of either branch of councils today because he fears that his members might make some blunder on the eve of the election that would harm the party ticket and the Republicans secure some advantage over the administration.

Councils, however, will be active after the election. The ordinances vacating and relocating Boundary street and for the removal of the Pittsburgh Junction tracks will be presented. There will also be an ordinance for the purchase of another big lot of water meters. The work of installing water meters was resumed October 1, notwithstanding Controller Larkin declared Director Bigelow had abandoned the scheme. On the contrary, the work is being pushed more energetically than ever before, and Mr. Larkin is no longer a dissenter.

POLITICAL SITUATION IS TERSELY PRESENTED

Is Found in Sunday Gazette Along With Everything in Which Readers Are Interested.

The Gazette of yesterday was everything that a great newspaper should have been. It was filled with news from all corners of the earth; it contained a variety of special stories dealing with subjects pertinent to all classes of readers; its editorial comment was terse and timely and its comic section was funnier than ever. Politics is now engaging the attention of the voters and in no part of the state does the pot boil more furiously than in Allegheny county, and in no paper will one find the facts more pleasingly or fairly presented.

Democrats made a mighty effort to ride for one night on the water wagon. Congressman Dalzell and J. Hampton Moore spoke to a large audience in McKeesport. Republicans in Philadelphia held a turnout that eclipsed all parades ever seen in the Quaker City. Independents held a mass meeting in Forbes Street Turner hall which was addressed by W. H. Stevenson, Oliver McClintock, W. K. Jenkins and former Senator Lewis Emery. Voters' Civic League issued a bulletin which severely scored the administration of County Commissioner James A. Clark.

Russian cities were burned and sacked and many were killed during riots. Workmen were shot down by Cossacks in Warsaw while attempting to rescue their comrades.

Boston police have discovered that rings worn by the victim of the suit case mystery were made in Pittsburgh. Grover Cleveland paid a touching tribute to his former secretary of agriculture, the late J. Sterling Morton. Wireless station at Washington made a record in communicating with President Roosevelt's party on the West Virginia. A murderer defied officers from the shelter of a bank vault.

An actor in Pittsburgh believes Ethel Durrell, a Boston chorus girl, is the victim of the suit case tragedy. W. H. Andrews was sued by the receiver of the Enterprise National bank for $25,000, and Controller Ridgely assessed the stockholders $200,000. The properties of the Little Kanawha syndicate were delivered to the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie in New York. Detectives said Mrs. Edward George Cunliffe confessed to receiving a part of the money stolen from the Adams Express Company, and a package of $5,000 was found in the lining of a baby buggy. Engineers' society excursion to South Sharon was the largest in its history. Sixth Ward Civic association has many plans for the improvement of "Hardscrabble." Violin over 300 years old charmed a peculiar audience in East End. Passenger Agent Potts announced that the Milwaukee is to install sleeping cars with the drawing rooms in the center of the car. S. C. Wilkinson pleaded guilty to embracery and made a confession in which he declared that Public Safety Director Scandrett of Allegheny gave him $25 to fix a jury in the Wilson graft case; also involving Richard McCormick, an Allegheny saloon keeper, and George Morgan.

W. and J. beat Georgetown and W. U. P. defeated Dickinson. West Point was defeated by Yale and the Indians by U. of P. The East High school of Cleveland was defeated by Shadyside. The only stir of the week in baseball was caused by Ed. Hanlon. Bowlers will meet tonight to take action on National tournament. Jimmy Gardner and Twin Sullivan were matched to meet in San Francisco.

New York stocks were active and feverish, closing weaker and lower on the further decline in foreign markets. The New York weekly bank statement showed an increase of more than $15,000,000 in loans, an increase of $4,400,000 in cash reserves and a decrease of $153,225 in surplus reserve. Gloomy reports from Russia proved the controlling factor in the grain market.

PRESIDENT WIGHTMAN SAYS HE IS CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Announces He Will Stand for Re-Election to Councils, If He Fails to Land Bigger Nomination. Says O'Mara Is Against Him.

President J. S. Wightman.

"I am a candidate for mayor of Pittsburgh and also for re-election to select council from the Twenty-second ward. I am not certain about the first-named office, however, but if I do not secure the nomination for mayor I will continue to be a candidate for re-election to councils. I will know in about a month just where I stand."

The above statement was made yesterday by J. Smiley Wightman, president of select council and a representative in the upper branch from the Twenty-second ward. Mr. Wightman's name for mayor was offered to the Citizens party managers at the time that William B. Hays was picked. He was later proposed for director of the department of public safety, but this position was given to appease Harry Moore, who was first named for mayor and then withdrawn by the managers.

Mr. Wightman has a pronounced ambition to be mayor of Pittsburgh and is not particular on what ticket he is nominated. He says he is as good a friend of Director Bigelow as he ever was.

"I believe, though, that I have been ruled out of the Republican party and I am afraid Director Bigelow has some other man picked for mayor on the Citizens ticket. If I am not nominated for mayor, I will be a candidate for councils again.

"Roger O'Mara assures me positively that he will be against me for councils the next time I run. O'Mara is sore because the city did not buy his property at Northumberland street and Shady avenue for an engine house site. He wanted the city to pay him $25,000 for the property, and the site which the city did purchase in Northumberland street cost only $11,000. I opposed the purchase of his property and now he says he is going to defeat me. I understand that William B. Wolfe, former member of common council from the Twenty-second ward, will oppose me. Wolfe has told me that he will have the indorsement of the Republican and Orphan parties."

"If you were mayor, would you retain Director Harry Moore and Supt. 'Buck' Wallace in office?"

"Now, you know where I stand on that proposition," was Mr. Wightman's reply.

Mr. Wightman is engaged in the art glass business. He was elected to select council in 1902 and his term expires next April. He served several terms in common council.

AUTOMOBILE IS BESTED IN COLLISION WITH CAR

An automobile belonging to the Keystone Automobile company collided with a Liberty and Lincoln avenue car at Center and Euclid avenues early yesterday morning. The chauffeur was thrown out but escaped injury. The front of the automobile was badly smashed.

Fire Destroys Freight Car.

A Fort Wayne freight car standing at Eleventh and Pike streets caught fire yesterday morning. A still alarm called out No. 3 engine company, but the car was a wreck before the firemen arrived. The fire started in a lot of straw.

Security Stamps

Valuable! Honest! Permanent!

A dignified system of discount, bringing with it a substantial definite reward to those who pay cash and confine their purchases to the stores that give them. Although the Security Stamp system has been before the people of Pittsburg only about two months, hundreds of reputable and enterprising merchants have endorsed and adopted them.

Another Trading Stamp Company has gone the way of the many—but Security Stamps are here to stay. Their redemption is guaranteed AT ALL TIMES, by the large, reputable stores mentioned in the box below. A word to the wise is sufficient—"Save Security Stamps."

To Trading Stamp Collectors

Are you tired of trading stamp premiums? Collect Security Stamps and select your own premiums out of the enormous stocks of the drygoods or furniture houses that redeem Security Stamps.

One thousand Security Stamps are worth $3.00 in plainly marked merchandise at any "redemption station" on any business day of the year.

Five hundred Security Stamps are redeemable proportionately at the above rate.

Compare $3.00 in the merchandise sold by the large drygoods and furniture houses with a premium given for 1,000 trading stamps.

Are you happy when you discover that you must pay delivery charges on your trading stamp premium—such as it is—after you have collected the 1,000 stamps necessary to obtain it? If not, collect Security Stamps and be happy. All merchandise given in exchange for Security Stamps is delivered free.

Were you disappointed when you found that the trading stamp premium you expected to get for "one book" was marked "two books" when you presented your stamps for redemption? Collect Security Stamps and be delighted. Their value never changes. You select your own merchandise at any time, just as you do when shopping in the ordinary way. Your Security Stamps will be accepted just the same as cash on your purchase at any of the "redemption stores."

Competition regulates prices, and you will find the best of merchandise for sale at the lowest prices, courteous treatment and 3 per cent interest on what you spend at the stores that give Security Stamps.

Your grocer and meat dealer have Security Stamps, or will get them for you, if you demand them. The merchant that values your trade and good opinion would rather give you Security Stamps than trading stamps, because he knows Security Stamps have an honest, definite, unchanging value of $3.00 per 1,000 in merchandise of your own selection at regularly marked prices.

He knows you are getting a "square deal" and knows you are not going to complain to him about the "cheap premiums"—and he is happy and content.

Take our word for it, the merchant worthy of your patronage—the merchant who really has your interests at heart—the merchant who wants you to have full value for your money—will give you Security Stamps—not trading stamps.

Before Security Stamps arrived he could do no better, but now there is no excuse for a merchant giving you trading stamps that he himself does not know the value of.

N. B.—Several of the largest and most reputable concerns in Pittsburg will redeem Security Stamps in the near future. Their names will be announced later.

The above named merchants will redeem Security Stamps at the following rate:

500 Security Stamps are worth in merchandise. $1.50 | 1,000 Security Stamps are worth in merchandise. $3.00

To the Merchants of Pittsburg and Vicinity

Do you want a decent, dignified discount system, and, properly featured, the best and most honest trade-building system ever devised?

You may have it in Security Stamps at moderate cost.

If you are now giving trading stamps are you not tired of listening to complaints about the quality of the premiums your customers have been getting in exchange for them?

You will never hear a complaint about the quality of merchandise given in exchange for Security Stamps, because the people select their own premiums out of the enormous stocks of large and reputable drygoods and furniture houses. The price is plainly marked and Security Stamps are accepted just the same as cash.

You ought to know what you are paying your money for, because, if a pleased customer is the best advertisement, a displeased one is a correspondingly bad one, and you know that your customers hold you morally responsible, to a certain extent, for the quality of the merchandise given in exchange for the stamps you are now giving.

Wouldn't you feel better if you could look your customer in the eye and tell her that the stamps you were giving had a definite, honest, permanent value of $3.00 per thousand?

If you are tired of paying the enormous profits of trading stamp companies, or, in other words, the difference between what you pay for the stamps and the value of the premiums your customers receive—if you want the giving of stamps to reflect credit upon you—if you want a clean, legitimate trade-winner—have one of our representatives call upon you.
